

ICKES SUSPENDS COUNTY PROJECTS

Texan's Crooning Intrigues Voters

Here's a typical scene in the circus-like campaign W. Lee O'Daniel is waging for the governorship of Texas. While a crowd in Rosenberg presses close to his sound truck, O'Daniel tells the voters that his platform is the Ten Commandments and that he will pay $30 monthly to every Texan over 65 if he is elected. Next to the would-be governor is his son Mike, 18, a member of O'Daniel's hillbilly band. O'Daniel also croons and takes up collections. State observers believe the Port Worth flour miller, who entered the race as a joke, may gain one of the two runoff places in the Democratic primary July 25. He has 12 opponents.

MODERN JONAH GETS RIDE IN WHALE'S MOUTH...AND LIVES

BOSTON, July 15.—(UP)—The schooner Mary O'Hara arrived today with the biggest—literally and figuratively—fish story of the year.
Cap'n Fred Wilson told the story of a modern Jonah: John Clement, a member of the O'Hara's crew, was hauling trawls into his dory in the south channel southeast of Cape Cod Wednesday when he sighted a 100 foot whale chasing a school of herring.
After swallowing some three barrels of herring at one gulp, the whale turned his attention to Clement's dory.
With jaws agape, the whale approached and lifted the dory—very gently into his mouth.
Then, with mouth still open, the whale took Clement and the dory for a mile-long ride.
Suddenly tiring of his mouthful, the whale spit out the dory and swam away. Clement bailed for his life and rowed back to the schooner.
Cap'n Wilson swore the story was true, and Clement could not be found to tell additional details.

New Suburb Seen For Santa Ana

A new residential suburb in the rapidly-growing northwest section of Santa Ana was assured with the announcement today that Emmet C. Rogers, local builder, has completed negotiations for a $30,000 subdivision program by acquiring the Howell tract north of Washington avenue, facing Freeman and Towner streets. Extension of both streets through the tract as far as Fifteenth street will be a part of the new program, Rogers said.
Rogers, who acquired the tract of between eight and nine acres from David J. Howell, 2032 Greenleaf street, said that the program of subdividing the tract will begin at once. The property comprises a walnut grove. Streets will be opened, sidewalks, sewer and water connections, and light facilities will be installed. The lots will be laid out chiefly with 40-foot frontage, some having more, and some less, Rogers said. He expects to have 26 building sites altogether in the new tract, he stated.
Freeman street will be opened first, according to Rogers, the extension of Towner street being planned a little later.

Launch Quiz In Warehouse Fire

SAN JOSE, July 15.—(UP)—Fire Chief Charles Plummer today ordered an investigation into a fire which swept through the Lion Furniture Company warehouse in the downtown business district last night.
The fire was preceded by a blast and did damage estimated at several thousand dollars before being brought under control.
A fire in the same warehouse did $50,000 damage eight years ago.

Austin's Taylor's Indian Broom and Whichest; Howard Hawks' Warfellow, and A. A. Baroni's triple entry of Specity, Star Shadow and No Will pilot Seabiscuit while Wayne Wright will be astride Specity, which probably will be the secondary favorite.

Home—and a New World Flight Record Is Theirs

Welcome accorded conquering heroes was given Howard Hughes and his crew of intrepid fliers as they arrived in New York after flying around the world in less than four days. Last to step from the plane on its arrival was Hughes, millionaire pilot, and greeting him was Fiorello La Guardia, mayor of New York. Left to right: Edward Lund, Hughes, Thomas Thurlow, H. P. FEAR MORE BREAKS AT ARIZONA PRISON

FLORENCE, Ariz., July 15.—(UP)—Maj. Gen. Alexander M. Tuthill, adjutant general of the Arizona national guard, was ordered to "look over the situation" at the state prison here today as officials took steps to curb a growing tension at the institution.
Gov. R. C. Stanford said he would issue a proclamation calling out the guardsmen as soon as Major General Tuthill reported back to him.
Demands Order
"We'll keep order at the prison if we have to keep the national guard there a year," the governor said.
Twenty convicts, 11 of whom are still at large, broke away from the prison since June 7 in the worst series of escapes in the prison's history. The situation became acute last night after the last five had fled.
Calls for Help
Warden John C. Eager appealed to the governor for help to guard "public peace and safety."
"We can no longer control the situation," the Warden said. "We have a lot of dangerous characters who may stage a break at any time. There are not sufficient guards to pursue the men and even the prison bloodhounds are worn out from chasing the men."
The warden blamed the crisis on the overcrowded condition at the prison. The prison has a population of 739, with accommodations for little more than half that number, and has only four guards on duty at a time, the warden said.
Governor Stanford said he would use the national guard to reinforce the regular prison staff until funds could be obtained to cope with the situation.

Approve Budget For Sanitarium

MERCED, Cal., July 15.—(UP)—A $96,000 budget for the operation of the Alhambra tuberculosis sanitarium in Madera county stood approved today by directors of the institution. The expenditures for the coming year represented an increase of $4,000 over those of last year.
James Uhle, Merced auditor who presented the figures to the directors, said Madera county will bear the greatest share of the rise, due to the increased number of Madera county patients.
The sanitarium is maintained by Stanislaus, Merced and Madera counties on a share basis determined by the number of patients from each county.

Bridges Faces Contempt Trial

LOS ANGELES, July 15.—(UP)—Harry Bridges, Pacific coast C. I. O. leader, was scheduled to go to trial today on charges of contempt of court in connection with statements he assertedly made during trial of a jurisdictional dispute between C. I. O. and A. F. of L. factions of San Pedro longshoremen.
Presiding Judge Ruben Schmidt, who cited Bridges for contempt, recently withdrew voluntarily from the case and attorneys for Bridges and the bar association selected Judge Edward Bishop to try the case.

Hughes Gets N. Y. Acclaim

NEW YORK, July 15.—Howard Hughes and the four men who helped him break the "round-the-world speed record rolled up "Heroes Highway" today through the biggest and loudest demonstration New York has seen since Lindbergh came home 11 years ago.
The canyon of lower Broadway, through which Gertrude Ederle, Commander Richard E. Byrd and Lindbergh moved in triumph, swarmed with humanity. Sidewalks were five and six deep with people, uncounted thousands hung out of windows of towering office buildings and turned July into winter by showering down a white blizzard of ticker tape, torn telephone books and scraps of paper.
3000 Police
Three thousand police, one fifth of New York's entire force, patrolled the curbs and fought ceaselessly against the surge of uncounted thousands who tried to break through the lines and get to the automobile in which Hughes was riding. Flags spangled the line of march to city hall where Mayor Fiorello La Guardia waited to extend the city's official greetings, fireboats in the harbor set up a din with their whistles and Wall

YOUTH IS RESCUED IN MOUNTAIN AREA

SALT LAKE CITY, July 15.—(UP)—A party of newspapermen and deputy sheriffs today reached the summit of 10,000-foot Mount Olympus and found Roger Carney, 24, who had been lying near the top of the rugged mountain since early yesterday with a broken leg.
Carney was placed on a stretcher and deputy sheriffs, working in relays, started the descent to the floor of Salt Lake Valley.
Rugged Area
Chief Deputy Sheriff George Beckstead said that Carney probably would not reach the base of the mountain until approximately 7 p. m.
"There is absolutely no trail through the underbrush and going is really tough," Beckstead said. "It took the men who brought word of the rescue four hours to come down the mountain and they were traveling light. It will take three times that long for the men with the stretcher."
Beckstead said that a party led by Deputy Elmer Savage found Carney about 6 a. m. The injured youth was on a ledge several hundred feet above the base of the mountain.

County Acquires Three Dairies

As County Treasurer T. E. Stephenson today paid out three warrants totaling $144,579, Orange county became the owner of three large dairies located on China creek in the Prado reservoir basin.
The property has gone through escrow in the Security Title Insurance and Guaranty company of San Bernardino, under arrangement made by C. H. Chapman of Santa Ana, special agent of the board of supervisors to secure title to lands that will be covered by flood water after the dam is built.
The properties for which the treasurer today made payments are as follows: To Mrs. Rosa Abacherli, for 233 acres, $48,500; to John Abacherli, for 113 acres, $50,150; to Arnold Abacherli, for 223 acres, $45,929.
Upon each property are located dairy barns, silos and homes. In each instance, the property owner is to retain possession of the property until November, 1939, so that the seller can have opportunity to sell the dairy herds now sustained on the property.
At the same time that Stephenson made payment for the three dairies he paid $6887 to the title company to close up the purchase of seven acres from Louis Richenberger. This purchase includes a filling station and farm scales and residence at the Upland fork of the China creek road. These four properties lie in San Bernardino county.

ROCHESTER, Minn., July 15.—(UP)—Dr. Robert A. Millikan, California Institute of Technology physicist and Nobel prize winner, was reported in serious condition at Mayo clinic hospital today after a fall bladder operation.

Dr. Millikan was stricken several weeks ago while conducting cosmic ray experiments at Bismarck, N. D. He was operated on yesterday.

Warren Marr Pleads Not Guilty To Charges

Warren Marr, the gentleman from Indiana, today pleaded not guilty to nine counts of a four-year-old indictment charging him with grand theft and violations of the corporate securities act. Trial was set for August 15 before a jury in Judge George K. Scovel's court.
Marr thus was brought to bar after years of pursuit and capture, escape and recapture, dating from his indictment for alleged stock frauds investigated by the grand jury of 1934-35. Even now, the sheriff's office is keeping a close watch over him, to guard against reported attempts to take him from the hands of the law.
When he appeared in court today with his attorney, Z. B. West, and pleaded not guilty, Judge James L. Allen ordered an information to be filed within a week, adding another felony to the prosecution's score, in connection with Marr's escape in 1933.
Marr originally was indicted with A. E. Acres, who pleaded guilty in 1935 to two counts and now is serving a sentence in San Quentin. Marr was arrested in Michigan, and fought extradition but finally was brought to Orange county for trial.
Before the trial was held he obtained a permit from Judge Scovel to be taken to Los Angeles county by officers, to arrange details of his defense. While at the home of a relative in Pasadena he escaped the state personnel board will consider your application for a position as state lion hunter. Salary minimum is $110 a month plus bounties on pelts.

Women of Seal Beach Will Not Tolerate Any Gambling

Women of Seal Beach will not tolerate any gambling if the members of the P. T. A. and Women's club have anything to say about it.
Today a petition bearing the names of 155 women was presented to City Clerk Mrs. Ollie B. Padrick demanding that the city council deny the application of a group of Hollywood men for permits to install 12 draw poker tables in Seal Beach.
Attorney General U. S. Webb recently ruled that draw poker is legal in the state of California and as a result draw poker games are flourishing in many of the beach cities, especially in Los Angeles county.

Leaders of the P. T. A. and Women's club declared in their petitions to the city clerk, that

BEACH WOMEN "UP IN ARMS;" FIGHT PLANS FOR GAMBLING

The council is expected to take action on the application of the Hollywood men at its meeting next week and at the same time will consider the petitions of the two women's groups.

LABOR GROUPS CLAMOR FOR REVENGE AFTER CIO "PURGE"

WESTWOOD, Cal., July 14. —(UP)—Labor groups today started a clamor to avenge the "purge" of 1000 C.I.O. lumber workers who were driven out of town for forcing the Red River Lumber Company plant to shut down in a strike over a 17-1-2 per cent pay reduction.

The lumber plant and box factory—largest in the west—resumed operations today and peace prevailed after the vicious street fighting of Wednesday in which one man was shot and 30 injured.

In San Francisco the Northern California CIO Director Louis Goldblatt filed charges of "vigilantism" against the lumber company with the National Labor Relations board and placed responsibility for the "purge" on the shoulders of the firm.

The refugees, scattered along the roads leading from this company owned town, walked and rode determinedly toward the state capital in Sacramento to protest en masse to Gov. Frank F. Merriam. The American Civil Liberties Union joined the CIO in sending telegrams of protest to Governor Merriam, President Roosevelt and the La Follette Civil Liberties Committee of Congress, asking for investigations of the "vigilante outrage" and a public inquiry.

The company yesterday invited all men employed on July 7, the date of the strike call, to come back to work, including the CIO members, and promised there would be no discrimination. Only a few members or sympathizers remained in town.

Rousing Reception Greets Conquerors of Space at New York

New York went wild with excitement as Howard Hughes and his four fellow world fliers arrived in New York, less than four days after they left the same field on their flight around the world. The mark set by the millionaire aviator and his fellow fliers almost halved the former time set by the late Wiley Post. Here's the scene of excitement as Hughes landed; left to right: Grover Whelan, head of the New York World's Fair; Hughes, H. P. Connor, Richard Stoddard, Mayor La Guardia, Edward Lund, Thomas Thurlow.—Acme Telephoto.

Street stopped watching the fliers long enough to prove again that hard boiled New York is a sentimental old softy deep down in its heart.

Hughes approached his hour of glory nonchalantly, almost indifferently. At noon, the scheduled hour of starting, he was loitering in his hotel room in a dressing gown, dictating letters to a stenographer. Reluctantly, he climbed into his clothes, got into an automobile and went to the starting point of the parade. Public acclaim was the worst ordeal for the shy, modest Texas millionaire than any of the dangerous waste spaces of the world he crossed in his record smashing flight around the world.

It was 12:45 p. m. before the Fireboat John J. Harvey, lying off the battery, gave three shrill blasts as a signal for starting the parade. At that time there were 300,000 persons—enough to make a good sized city—massed on the strip of Manhattan Island. The number swelled by the minute as workers poured out of the skyscrapers for the noon hour. Grover Whelan, president of the New York world fair and former official greeter for the city of New York, earned years ago that the best time to hold a parade here is at the lunch hour when thousands are on the streets.

Wives Go Along
Motorcycle police and patrol cars, moving at half speed, led the way uptown through the canyon of skyscrapers. The first automobile in line carried Hughes and Whelan. Lieut. Thomas Thurlow and Harry P. Connor, Hughes' navigators, were in the second car and in the third one rode Richard E. Stoddard, radio engineer for Hughes and Edward Lund, flight engineer. Mrs. Stoddard, Mrs. Thurlow and Mrs. Connor were in the sixth car behind those occupied by world's fair officials.

Writes Statement
Before the parade started moving up Broadway, Hughes handed newspapermen a written statement, explaining in detail why he undertook his hazardous flight.

"Here are some of the things I jotted down for you boys," he told newspapermen. "I worked in the early morning hours on it so you will all have the same thing."

The statement read: "I have written this out because I am afraid I might get nervous and not say just what I want to. You may rest assured that no one has written it for me."

"Not Super Men"
"I am not very good at making speeches and I have consented to make this one only because there is one thing about this flight that I would like everyone to know. It was in no way a stunt. It was the carrying out of a careful plan because it was carefully planned."

"We who did it are entitled to no particular credit. We are no super-men. Any one of the airline pilots of this nation with any of the trained army or navy navigators and competent radio engineers in any of our modern passenger transports could have done the same thing."

"The airline pilots of this country, who in my opinion are the finest fliers in the world, face much worse conditions night after night during every winter."

Gives Credit
"If credit is due anyone, it is due to men who designed and perfected to its present remarkable state of efficiency, the modern American flying machine and equipment."

"If we made a fast flight, it was because many young men in this country went to engineering school, worked hard at drafting tables, and designed a fast airplane and navigation and radio equipment which would keep this plane upon its course. All we did was to operate this equipment and plane according to the instruction book accompanying the article."

"With the most advanced and newest equipment developed, my navigators and radio engineers furnished me with accurate information as to the position of the plane at all times, so that I estimate for the total trip we traveled only 20 miles more than the shortest distance between the points of take off and landing."

Flew Blind
"We made no unscheduled stop. We arrived at every point within a few minutes of the estimated arrival time."

"We waited not one minute for weather, flying blind or above the clouds for over three fourths of the entire trip. We did not even see the Atlantic ocean."

"The plane is fast because it is the product of over 200,000 hours of engineering efforts."

Roosevelt Tours Yosemite

seemed to welcome the chief executive, cheered as he detrained.

Starts Tour
After official greetings by Park Superintendent Lawrence Merriam and other park officials, the President and his party departed by automobile for a sightseeing tour of California's most famous scenic wonderland—a huge glacial gorge 4000 feet up in the Sierras.

The party proceeded into this mighty gorge—known as Yosemite Valley—by way of the Merced river canyon to Pohono bridge. The route took them up the south side of the valley, past Sentinel Dome, the old Yosemite Indian village and Camp Curry, from where the President looked at Half Dome.

Visits Lake
From there the motorcade went to Happy Isles and across the valley to Mirror Lake for a tour down the north side of Yosemite, past Royal Arches and Yosemite Falls, through Wawona tunnel to the Mariposa big trees, 25 miles from the floor of the valley.

After luncheon at Mariposa big trees lodge, in the open, the President and his party were to retrace the same road as far as Chinquapien, then turn off on a branch to Glacier Point where he will have a 100 mile panorama of the high Sierra.

Start For L. A.
The return trip through the valley to El Portal was expected to be completed by 5 p. m. Shortly afterwards the Presidential train will proceed back to main lines and head south for Los Angeles.

Roads were lined with people as the President rode past. "It was President Roosevelt's first visit to Yosemite. He was the fourth President in office to come here. At least three others who had been President or became President afterwards have also visited the park."

James A. Garfield visited Yosemite in 1875. He was Congressman Garfield then, impressed by what he saw, he wrote on the park register: "No one can thoughtfully study the valley and its surroundings without being broader minded thereafter."

Grant In 1879
Ulysses S. Grant came to the park in 1879. He had retired from the Presidency and was on a world tour.

Youth Rescued From Mountain

dred yards down the east side of the mountain and had not been able to hear shouts of rescue crews working up the west side last night.

Mother Keeps Watch
Word of Carney's rescue was brought to Salt Lake City by Mrs. Dean S. Carney, the injured youth's mother, who had maintained an all-night vigil at the base of rock-studded Mt. Olympus.

Mrs. Carney said her son's right leg was broken just above the ankle but the break was not compound and emergency splints had been placed over the wound by officers, who carried first aid equipment.

The injured boy will be carried down the rugged mountainside by the men until the party reaches a small trail. Then the stretcher will be transferred to horses, which will carry him to the waiting ambulance to be rushed to Salt Lake City.

Mrs. Carney said she was going to return to the base of the hill to await the arrival of her son. Search parties had worked night-long in an unsuccessful effort to locate the injured youth.

Townsend's Aims To Be Outlined

Considerable confusion has arisen from the request of Dr. Francis E. Townsend to the Townsend party people in urging them to transfer into the Democratic ranks in an effort to support the nomination of Sheridan Downey in the primary election August 30, supporters claimed today. Downey is running against William Gibbs McAdoo, incumbent.

J. H. Walsh, representative of the Townsend political party in Southern California will speak at a meeting at 7:30 p. m. today at 509 West Fourth street. He will clarify Dr. Townsend's desires.

Japanese Raid Blocked by China

one phase of widespread, successful bombings of Chinese military concentrations. The Chinese reported, however, that their planes equally active, had bombed numerous Japanese warships and troop concentrations in the vicinity of Kukiang, 135 miles below Hankow on the Yangtze river.

Despite Japanese claims that most of China's first line airplanes had been destroyed two weeks ago in a raid on Nanchang, the Chinese asserted that their aerial operations were partly responsible for halting the Japanese drive up the Yangtze. Spokesman for the Chinese air force said Chinese airplanes had slowed Japanese troop landings. They said that during the last two weeks in the Wuhan district, Chinese airplanes and artillery units sank 21 Japanese warships and disabled 19, including light cruisers, destroyers, minesweepers and one aircraft carrier.

S. MAIN STREET JOB IMPERILED

All WPA work on the South Main street extension project will stop July 29, unless Supervisor N. E. West is successful in securing $175,000 from the state department of highways in Sacramento today.

According to information to The Register today, WPA workers will have finished all preliminary clean-up work on the project on the county right-of-way by July 29 and unless additional surveying lines are staked out, all work will stop.

Waits On State

According to officials of the county highway department, they are not permitted to continue their surveying work until the county has been granted a right-of-way by the Irvine company, owner of the property, and Irvine has indicated that he is unwilling to give the right-of-way until he knows that the $175,000 allocation for paving is available.

The $175,000 that had been originally earmarked for the paving project by the state department was withdrawn for emergency flood relief and construction work and no new allocation has been made to replace it to date.

Supervisor West is planning to present the case to highway department officials in an attempt to secure the necessary $175,000.

Africa presented the sheriff with an enlarged, framed picture of the sheriff and others who took part in the parade July 4. About 65 persons attended last night's meeting.

The Bealmers separated at Guzman, Mexico, May 14. They had signed an agreement covering their property, custody of the son and his maintenance, the wife states. This agreement provided for payment of $50 per month, but the husband had paid her only $25 per month and refuses more, she states. Payment of fees for her attorney, Jack J. Rimmel, of Santa Ana, also is asked.

THREE MOTORISTS FACE JAIL TERMS AS S. A. HEARINGS NEAR

Three motorists, all of whom asked for permission to appear in Santa Ana justice court rather than courts in the townships where arrested for speeding, faced the possibility of serving terms of five days each in county jail.

GOING TO TOWN WITH THRIFT

By Julia Lee Wright
Director, Safeway Homemakers' Bureau

Thriftiest of meats is Ground Beef, our modern improvement upon old-fashioned hamburger. You can work wonders with Ground Beef; yes, even dazle dinner guests with it! For instance:

There's no meat that's tastier than dainty Ground Beef Patties, seasoned to taste and broiled with strips of bacon wrapped around the edge.

Yet you can't beat a juicy, fragrant Meat Loaf, served piping hot with baked potatoes and succulent vegetables. I use 2/3 Ground Beef to 1/3 ground pork or pork sausage. Allow 1/4 to 1/3 pound per person, baking in moderate oven 350 to 375 degrees.

Meat loaves hold their shape better if quite moist. I work into each pound of meat 1/2 cup of liquid, 1 egg, 1/3 to 1 cup bread or cracker crumbs.

Now that we're having Safeway's Ground Beef made in our own Central Meat Plant and delivering it to each store packed in sanitary Visking wrappers, you are always sure of uniform quality. How different from the days when a market man made hamburger from what was at hand — sometimes too lean — sometimes so full of fat that it shrivelled way up in cooking. This gamble now is done away with.

termed the "Thirty Dollars a Week for Life California Pension Plan" because he personally tried it out and it cost him a cold $30 cash! "I was driving along with my truck some time ago," Morales told Herman Zabel, head of Sheriff Logan Jackson's bureau of identification, "when a Long Beach man stopped me. He was stalling and a heavy Adam H. Beach, Long Beach, said there with his truck and wanted to get to Long Beach. He said he would pay me $10 if I would haul the wheat and his truck and trailer check to Marcos Garcia, Fullerton to Long Beach." "It Looked Good" Thereafter, according to Morales, the "good Samaritan" act was completed and Morales was presented with what he thought was an ordinary good $30 check. "It was a fake," said Morales. The man, who gave his name as Adam H. Beach, Long Beach, said he would return for the $20 in change. He never did. Then Morales presented the grocer, who gave Morales $10 worth of groceries and $20 cash. Garcia presented the check to F. Dominger, larger-scale grocer in Fullerton, who sells to Garcia as well as to retail customers. Dominger sent it to the bank. It promptly "bounced."

check and ask for no more of them." Examination showed the check actually was dated November 8, 1935, and was "to the order of you and every California citizen over 50 years old." It was one of the pension group's advertisements.

It is estimated that there are approximately 750,000 persons now serving the motoring public through garages in one way or another.

CALHOUN BRANDED AS SLAYER BY JURY

MISTREATMENT PLEA IS HEARD

Charles Calhoun, 23, Midway City, today was officially branded as the murderer of Clyde Dillinger, 30-year-old cousin of the late John Dillinger, "public enemy No. 1."

At the Brown and Wagner Colonial funeral chapel yesterday afternoon a coroner's jury in charge of Coroner Earl Abbey held that gangrene and peritonitis brought death to Dillinger Tuesday night and that "from the evidence, we find that the death was the result of a shot fired with homicidal intent" from a gun in the hands of Charles Calhoun.

Tells of Mistreatment
Mrs. Naomi Cox, Oklahoma City, sister of Calhoun, and Deputy Sheriff G. F. McKelvey presented testimony. Mrs. Cox testified about reports she had heard to the effect that Dillinger had bragged of his "conquests" with Calhoun's "women folk" and had mistreated them, including Calhoun's 49-year-old mother who married Dillinger.

Officer McKelvey testified as to circumstances surrounding Calhoun's surrender and confession. Calhoun had stated he shot Dillinger with a 30-30 rifle bullet at the Earl Waffle home in Midway City where Calhoun had been living a week and earning board and room. It was said the shooting occurred as Calhoun suddenly "got the urge" to kill Dillinger and couldn't resist the chance to avenge wrongs done his family, Calhoun had explained.

Weds Calhoun's Mother
Hatred between Calhoun and Dillinger sprang up while both were confined at Oklahoma state prison on burglary convictions, according to alleged confessions by the former, and when Dillinger was released ahead of Calhoun, he promised to "get" Calhoun by making love to all of his women folk. Calhoun alleged Dillinger succeeded in his purpose. He also alleged that, after Dillinger persuaded Calhoun's mother to marry Dillinger, she was badly mistreated.

"Mind a Blank"
Atty. Nick Meyer is representing Calhoun, Assistant District Atty. Preston Turner, thymn, the state.

Meyer issued a statement today, as follows:
"The incident was a natural subconscious avengement of a wrong for which there was no redress at law. At the sight of Dillinger, Calhoun's conscious mind, being overburdened with the thought of the moral wrongs that he, Dillinger, had committed, suddenly exploded and thereafter, acted under the influence of the subconscious mind. There is no written law to apply; it must be judged by the law of nature."

THREE NURSES ATTACKED WHEN SICK MAN MAKES MAD BREAK

Three nurses of a hospital in the county were recovering today from injuries received at 1 a. m. today when Eugene Arcy, 40 of Santa Ana, patient at the hospital, apparently recovered from pneumonia, suddenly went berserk.

Attacking the three nurses with his fists and with a picture snatched from the wall of his room, Arcy knocked them about, escaped through a door into the bathroom, locked the bathroom door, ripped a screen from the bathroom window, opened the window and jumped two stories to the ground.

Located and Returned—Arcy, uninjured, ran from the scene. Many police officers on night duty combed the area for Arcy and it was an hour before he could be located.

He was located two or three blocks from the hospital and returned to the hospital. An examination showed he had been uninjured in the jump. When he disappeared, he was clad only in a hospital gown. He was bare-foot. When located, he walked back to the hospital calmly with officers and went back to his bed.

Prior to the sudden flurry of excitement, Arcy apparently was feeling fine.

Realtors To Open Quiz On Need Of New Courthouse

Investigation of the feasibility of the construction of a new Orange county courthouse, or sufficient additions thereto, to accommodate all county seat offices as well as creating provision for occupational emergencies, today seemed likely to be undertaken soon by a committee of the Santa Ana Realty Board.

The action might come as the result of a motion passed by the realtors in regular session today in the Rosemore cafe, which provided for the examination of the offices of the U. S. army engineers—in charge of the county flood control projects—soon are to be moved to rent-free quarters in Fullerton.

After informally discussing the report, realtors heard a motion by John Harvey, Santa Ana attorney, associate member of the board, "that the president name a committee of five to investigate the practicability of constructing an adequate courthouse." President Ray Goodell accepted the motion, which was duly carried, and indicated such a committee would be named.

The realtors also adopted a resolution requesting the county board of supervisors to reply by Aug. 1 to a plea of the board to boost Orange county's publicity fund to $15,000 annually.

Denies Charges Of Nazism

TOPEKA, Kan., July 15.—(UP)—The Rev. Gerald B. Winrod, Republican candidate for the United States Senate, was in the record today with a denial of the charges that he is pro-Nazi, anti-Catholic, unfriendly toward Masons, anti-semitic. The charges were made in a pamphlet circulated by a committee of ministers.

"It is a shame to waste time on matters of this kind when our very form of government is in jeopardy," the Wichita evangelist said. "The insinuation that I have fascist or Nazi inclinations was not uttered in sincerity, and is too absurd to be considered seriously. I deny the charge categorically. I denounce it as an outright falsehood. I condemn it as the cheapest politics. I don't get money from Germany. I am not anti-Catholic.

"I am not against Jews as a race or a religion. I only oppose the international Jew to whom we are indebted for the scourge of international Communism."

LARGE MWD SHAFT IS SPEEDED TODAY

Less than one mile to go! Hard-rock tunnel crews on the 13-mile San Jacinto tunnel of the Colorado river aqueduct today were blasting and drilling their way through the last mile on the difficult Potrero Shaft section of this long bore through Mt. San Jacinto, according to word received by General Manager F. E. Weymouth of the Metropolitan Water District.

Another Leg Scheduled

At the same time, other tunnel crews working toward each other on the Cabazon Shaft-Lawrence Adit leg of the tunnel had cut down the hard-rock barrier between them to less than 600 feet. This leg of the tunnel is scheduled to be "holed through" by August 1, or earlier, district engineers estimate.

Progress reports received by General Manager Weymouth revealed that at midnight Wednesday, the amount of tunnel excavation work remaining to be done on the tunnel section between Potrero Shaft and Lawrence Adit had been cut down to 5280 feet, or exactly one mile. Today the crews were blasting their way steadily forward on the last mile, with almost 12 miles of the 13-mile bore already excavated.

SHELTER BELT AIDS QUAILS

President Ray Goodcell settled the dispute by announcing that the dinner, prepared by Carl Mock and Mrs. Marie J. Gothard, was ready to be eaten.

SERIAL STORY INTERNE TROUBLE

BY ELINORE COWAN STONE
COPYRIGHT, 1938, NEA SERVICE, INC.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
TRAN DEARBORN—hero, a student nurse, who runs into love trouble when he meets
DR. BOB BENCHLEY—hero, handsome young intern. He has trouble, too, keeping up with his heart.
DR. STEPHEN SARGENT—head surgeon. Dr. Sargent's problem was something else again.

Yesterday, Dr. Sargent visits Miss Armstrong, who tells him that he has learned something which might interest her.

CHAPTER VIII

TRAN never knew in how large a measure she was indebted to the terrible Top Sarge for the part, drilled cap that stamped her as a full-fledged student nurse. She never knew that after telling the story of the evening in Emergencies, he had said, "Armstrong, that girl has something that five out of every six nurses lack. Interne trouble or not, she has the nursing touch."

TRAN only knew that that cap was the one thing she most wanted in the world, and that she had it.

Yet even during the ceremony that conferred it upon her she barely missed disgracing herself. It was unfortunate in the first place that Miss Armstrong had chosen Miss Miller to perform the capping ceremony on this occasion. There was something about "the icicle's" poised, finished perfection that invariably made TRAN feel hopelessly raw and crude, and consequently tightened her defense mechanism to the danger point.

It was doubly unfortunate that young Dr. Benchley should have been among those of the medical staff who attended the exercises; because, again, there was something about the impudently dancing eyes in his lean, smiling face that invariably put TRAN off her stride.

Strangely enough, the circumstance that steadied her and brought her up defiantly cool and dry-eyed was the presence of Dr. Stephen Sargent—there to speak a few inspiring words, and obviously bored and straining at the leash.

AFTER the capping exercises, TRAN and Beula Tagg—who couldn't believe yet that her cap was actually hers, but kept patting it with cautious fingers—held a "good resolutions" rally. For not even accepted student nurses always survived the grilling three years of training that entitled them to wear the coveted white linen uniforms. There were still "misfits" to be weeded out.

Beula vowed passionately that she would not eat between meals, and that she would exercise every night. TRAN swore that she would never giggle again, that she would not trust herself unnecessarily upon the attention of her superiors.

Report Immediately
"Precautions favoring control, which are accepted as a matter of course during the school year, are often discarded during the vacation months. Though we have less contagious disease during the summer season, a number of cases are still present, among them cases of more serious diseases such as scarlet fever. For this reason, every case of communicable disease in a home must be immediately reported by the head of the household directly to the county health department, located in the county house annex in Santa Ana, or to that department by way of a private physician."

"Prompt reporting of these communicable diseases is necessary in order that the same may be properly isolated and other children in the community protected. It is a well-known fact that a mild case of the disease in one instance may produce serious results in the case to which it is spread."

Higher Than Normal
Among the 295 cases for the period ending July 2 were 27 cases of chicken pox, 156 cases of measles, 41 cases of mumps, 10 cases of scarlet fever, 22 cases of tuberculosis and 14 cases of whooping cough. This record, said Dr. Sutherland, is higher than normal for this time of year, all of the diseases mentioned, except whooping cough, be-or dash around asking untimely questions; and privately, that she would shun the pernicious influence of Dr. Bob Benchley as if he were the plague. . . . She would not even stop for a few stolen words with him in the corridor, or to snatch a puff from his cigarette behind a convenient screen; she would never, never again dance with him to the music of a hurdy-gurdy in the street outside, as she had recklessly done when they had met by accident in the deserted service room of G-6 one fragrant May morning.

The occasion of that particular crime had been one that seemed to call for a celebration, because Bob had just been permitted to perform his first operation, under the sponsorship of Dr. Sargent. It might easily have been his last at Saint Vincent, for a bevy of trustees, conveyed by Miss Armstrong and the chief of staff, had all but walked in upon them in the midst of a particularly exuberant routine of improvised steps.

The girls solemnly registered their oaths over an open volume of the Materia Medica, and felt so uplifted thereafter that as a reward of virtue, Beula ate two helpings of everything for dinner. TRAN slipped badly almost at once. When Miss Philbin came in a few minutes late for demonstration class the day after the capping, it was to find the class in paroxysms of mirth while TRAN—as nurse—carried on, in Miss Philbin's own best manner, a Rabelaisian ventriloquial conversation with the demonstration dummy as patient, concerning the stolid, pink-checked, Griselda's most intimate symptoms.

But although Miss Philbin was faintly pink when she finally entered the room, she plunged briskly, without comment, into the lesson. . . . TRAN sometimes thought that Miss Philbin's discreet failure to hear or see a great deal that happened made the world a much pleasanter place than it might have been.

BUT so far as young Dr. Benchley went, TRAN sheathed herself in ice. When she met him in the corridors, she managed to convey by the briefest of nods that she was bent on a mission of life and death importance, and had no time for idle dalliance.

Once he did run her down in Central Supplies when the graduate nurse under whom she worked there was out of the room. He closed the door and advanced sternly upon her.

"Now, I've had enough of this nonsense," he began. "When you first came here, I thought you were the sweetest, tenderest thing I had ever seen, Agility. What, in God's name, are you trying to do to yourself? If you keep on this way, what you're going to turn into is something about as appealing as—well, as the perfect icicle, Miss Miller, for instance. . . . Darling, you weren't meant for this kind of thing. You—"

TRAN pulled the lever of the autoclave and faced him beligerently.

"Now you look here, Bob Benchley," she cut in. "I've got my living to make in this world, and—"

"But that's just it—you haven't. Honey, I've never told you yet what a darned lucky girl you are. I've got enough money for both of us."

THEN suddenly he was not laughing any more. His lean, young face was pale, and the light in his dark eyes was not impudent but pleading.

"Anyhow," he rushed on, "I have plenty to last a few years—till I get my big chance. . . . Oh, TRAN, I could go places if I had you to stick around and root for me."

"And I suppose you think," TRAN broke in—stomach, to give the lie to the melting at her heart—"that you're the only one around who wants to go places? Well, I'm ambitious, too. Some day I'm going to—"

"Sure! You don't have to tell me. Some day you're going to be top nurse for Old Sarge—like the perfect Miller. That's what every apron in this hospital prays for every night on bended knees. As if he'd ever give any of you a second look so long as Miller's around with that angel face of hers. He'd sell his soul for her if he didn't know she's a human glacier."

"You aren't fair to her," TRAN dashed; and surprisingly found herself believing it. "A nurse can't afford to be emotional. Too many people depend on her keeping her head."

"All right," he flung out at her. "Go ahead and turn yourself into another starched apron with antiseptic fluid in your veins, and see where it gets you with Top Sarge."

When she knew that Bob had really gone, TRAN sat down stiffly, her fingers holding to the edge of the chair seat. . . . Good thing he had gone, though. If he had stayed a minute longer, she might have told him the one thing she never meant anyone to find out. It was that she knew now that she had dedicated herself, like a priestess, to a higher, sterner destiny than sticking around and rooting for any young interne in the world.

The reason for this lay in something that had happened only that morning.

case. The health department earnestly requests the cooperation of the general public in keeping these communicable diseases under control."

Large Ernie Lombardi is an odds-on favorite for the most valuable player in the National league award . . . In nearly all of the Reds' engagements, nine innings of a winning All-Star game, and leading the loop in hitting with a rousing .364 . . . Wall street's surprising upward swing was reflected in Jess Sweetser's absence from the Victory cup tournament bearing his name at Winged Foot . . . In bagging the Western Opens of 1936, '37 and '38, and the United States Opens of last year and this, tall Ralph Guldahl played his five finishing rounds in 16 under par . . . Speaking of the totalizer, photo finish camera, starting gate, and other mechanical equipment which makes for racing perfection today, Judge Christopher F. Fitz Gerald, steward at Illinois tracks and Santa Anita, recalls that the start of the $75,000 Futurity in New York in 1897 was delayed an hour and 20 minutes . . . and that at old Washington Park, Chicago, when Boundless won the American Derby 45 years ago, the field was at the post for an hour and three-quarters . . . Fitz Gerald handled the starting flag in the Futurity . . . There was no barrier then, and the starting gate still was a contrivance of the future . . . Babe Ruth has pinned some old sobriety on Dodgers . . . Vito Tamulis is Tomatoes . . . Dolph Camilli is Cameo . . . But Ruth is still Ruth . . . for which the Sam is thankful . . . WRIGLEY SAYS CHANGES TO BE MADE ON CUBS

CHICAGO—(UP)—Owner Phil K. Wrigley tacitly admitted today he believed some changes were necessary for his faltering Chicago Cubs and indicated a successor for Manager Charlie Grimm might be included.

The Cub owner said, however, he would refuse to be "forced into anything." He also refused to spike persistent rumors that he would discharge Grimm.

The Cubs, now in fourth place in the National league, broke a six-game losing streak yesterday by winning two games from last place Philadelphia.

"Usually I have to spike these rumors about Grimm by giving him a new contract," Wrigley said. "I'm not going to give him a contract now. Something must be done but I won't be forced into anything."

Wrigley said his remarks in the last several days had been "misinterpreted."

"I have been thinking of a lot of things," he said, "including the need of some hard-hitting outfielders and possibly another pitcher. I did not say I would let Grimm go."

Seabiscuit Trains On Trains

Seabiscuit, the turf's foremost traveler, disembarks at Hollywood Park after his fourth transcontinental trip . . . from Suffolk Downs to Arlington . . . to Southern California.

Another picture of Seabiscuit, Charles S. Howard to forward Seabiscuit, only 5, has raced on 29 different tracks . . . traveled 30,000 miles. This perhaps is a record for equine gadding about. It goes without saying that Seabiscuit would never do. The bawling around that the cars get is okeh for a bale of cotton, but not for Seabiscuit, which must have buffer plates to prevent jar-fest.

Other thoroughbreds who have joined stables and seen America include Exterminator, Discovery, and many others.

Games Off; Now Mac Can't Use His Kimona

BY HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SHAWNEE - ON - DELAWARE, Pa.—I have a good mind to advise my barrister to sue the Japanese department of public welfare for canceling the Olympic Games that were scheduled for Tokyo in 1940.

Ever since that day in Berlin when it was announced that Tokyo would be host to the athletes, I have been preparing myself for a trip to Japan. For two years I have spent my time, energy and money studying the Japanese language, developing a taste for exotic foods, and moulding my Georgia cracker form so it would not look too ridiculous when draped in a kimono and hakama.

I believe I could collect a goodly sum from the department of public welfare just for the time I have spent on trying to learn to write my name in Japanese. If you think writing "Henry McLemore" in Japanese is a trivial feat just try it sometime. You start off first with a thing that resembles a sea-gull in full flight. No, on second thought it doesn't look like a sea-gull at all, but the lower end of a broken hockey stick. The next character really demands an artist. The best description I can give is that it looks like Adolph Menjou's eyebrows when they are registering extreme surprise. There is some more to the Henry, but it is the "McLemore" part that confounded me for months. When written in Japanese "McLemore" could easily be mistaken for the footprints of an emu with sore feet, walking across red hot sand.

Writing Japanese, however, is a pushover compared to talking it. Knowing that I would get lost in Tokyo I started by learning to say "Where is my hotel?" Sounds simple, doesn't it? But play this on your larynx at twilight: "Bokuno yadowa dotrada." That's what you

After enjoying a close friendship with my palate for nigh on to 30 years I, in a desire to feel at home in Tokyo, started eating such dishes as sashimi tempura and kaki-no-doteyaki. Now, at any moment, I expect my palate's barrister to serve me with papers.

To a palate accustomed to hominy, turnip greens, black-eyed peas and hog-jowl, sashimi is a sure signal for rebellion. Because sashimi is sliced raw fish and the first few dishes of it makes your stomach feel as if it were a goldfish bowl.

Any jury, I believe, would award me a handsome settlement for the suffering I endured in wearing a kimono and hakama, the latter item being a skirt which, while not cut on the bias, is certainly cut by a tailor biased against the male form appearing anything but ridiculous.

That kimono and hakama nearly broke up my home. My wife never could get quite accustomed to sharing an apartment with a man who insisted on slipping on a kimono and hakama when friends dropped in. And the time I suggested that I wear it to the theater—I figured I might as well get accustomed to being seen in public in the outfit—well, I would rather not pain you with the details of that evening.

So you see, I really have a good case against the Japanese department of public welfare. Anyone with a brief case he doesn't know what to do with can have the job of representing me.

By TOM GWYNNE
(Register Track Correspondent)
Seabiscuit, top weight and favorite for the $50,000 added Hollywood Gold Cup Saturday today appears a definite starter in the mile-and-a-quarter classic. He breezed an easy half mile following the last race yesterday, going in 51.5, with the quarter in 25.2-5. He strode smoothly and there was no sign of "choppiness" in his action.

Seabiscuit walked off the track in perfect style, was frisky, playful and nearly yanked Trainer Tom Smith off the saddle pony. Judging from the manner in which Smith is training the C. S. Howard champion, it would indicate strongly that the "silent conditioner" believes he has the race at his mercy. Otherwise he would have thrown more work into the Biscuit.

Taking Seabiscuit to top form, Smith is dead right. There are no tried and proved mile-and-a-quarter horses opposing the Biscuit Saturday, while the Howard star has demonstrated his greatness over this distance with weight up. Following the trial, Head Clocker Russell Brown remarked, "Seabiscuit is as sound as he ever was."

Edmond Soule, presiding steward, concurred in this opinion. In the meantime, Jack MacKenzie, general manager, had tried all afternoon to contact Owner Howard by telephone and obtain a definite statement regarding Seabiscuit's status. He was unable, however, to reach Howard, who is at his Northern California ranch, but is expected to arrive here today.

However, it can be taken for granted that Seabiscuit will start, providing nothing happens to him between now and post time. Owner Howard has ordered some boxes for his friends Saturday, and this is a further indication that the horse will start.

Joe Ferguson, an exercise boy, was aboard Seabiscuit during the trial.

Two members of the fourth estate bearded the lion's den and interviewed Trainer Smith following the trial. Here's what they got:
Reporters: "How it he."
Smith (reading the form chart) "Umph."
Reporters: "Will he start Saturday?"
Smith: "Umph."
There was more of this, but the final result was still the same. Smith dislikes about 98 per cent of the newspaper fraternity and does not take any pains to conceal it.

DOTS AND DASHES AND ONE OR TWO FLASHES

The Del Mar Turf club is throwing a "clam bake" for the newspaper lads July 27. Ah! a chance to sing "Down by the Old Mill Stream" with Bing Crosby . . . It's highly white of Uncle Joe Rodgers to suggest that National Night leaguers let the folk in free the rest of this term but his idea won't meet with enthusiasm because Huntington Beach is the only club that has no expenses to meet. Other teams buy their own balls, suits, bats and pay park rental; the city donates these at Huntington Beach . . .

Coach Jesse Mortensen of Riverside jaycee said, that only once in his experience has he been as keenly disappointed as when Finley Culpepper, one of his ace sprinters, pulled a muscle in the relay at the National A.A.U. track meet last week. The sight of his four sobbing runners carrying the heart-broken Culpepper down the track to the sympathetic applause of the crowd "got" Mortensen. Culpepper's muscle injury was so severe he may never be able to run the sprints again . . .

Inside stuff: Beginning in 1940, the Pasadena New Year's Day football classic will become an annual conflict between the champion team of the Pacific Coast conference and the Big Ten. All that remains to close the big deal is for the Big Ten to kick a couple of old mossback professors into line. Everybody else is ready to sign on the dotted line.

Maybe they'll beat old Seabiscuit at Inglewood tomorrow but this corner, for one, won't believe the bunch in that race can do it until it's done. The Biscuit ran 2:02 in the Santa Anita Handicap. Do you think there's that much speed in Inglewood's field? . . . Coach Bill Foote of the Saints is spending his summer cleaning up the yard at his new place on Baker street and Coach "Pinky" Greene is cleaning up around his new house on Flower. Meanwhile, Bill Cook just fishes and fishes and fishes . . .

Open to anyone who does not have the privilege of a private club's facilities, the Orange county tryouts for the National Public Parks tennis tournament will be run off at Fullerton Saturday and Sunday. Competition is scheduled in five events—men's and women's singles, men's and women's doubles and mixed doubles. This is the tournament Lewis Wetherell of Santa Ana won in '36 and '37 back east. Los Angeles gets the classic this summer (August 15-21) but Wetherell won't be there to defend. He's barnstorming in the east . . .

Earl (Dutch) Clark, playing coach of the Detroit Lions, and generally recognized as the brightest star in football, is regarded as one of the world's best-conditioned athletes, and passes on what he considers the ideal summer program for aspiring footballers.

"Get out under the sun as much as possible," says Clark. "A good coat of tan is necessary, because it indicates a man has soaked up plenty of ultra violet rays, which increases cold resistance, builds up stamina, and toughens the skin."

"Swimming is not good football conditioning exercise. It's best not to swim at all."

"Work in football shoes whenever possible. Get used to the feel of a football."

"Be sure your feet are ready for strenuous work. Concentrate on ankle, knee, and foot calisthenics."

Clark's schedule should have the boys following it ready for hard practice when they report in the fall.

Grove's Arm Better; Recovery Now Hoped

BOSTON—(UP)—"Lefty" Grove's mysteriously ailing arm took a turn for the better today and hope was held out that he would be able to pitch again.

Dr. Edward J. O'Brien Jr., Boston Red Sox club physician, was optimistic over Grove's chances for recovery from the strange ailment which caused the Red Sox southpaw to leave the mound at the end of the fourth inning yesterday against Detroit complaining that his arm was "dead."

"His arm is much improved," said Dr. O'Brien, and we now get a faint pulse. Grove is cheerful and he expects to be able to pitch in a few days."

The arm gave out yesterday at the end of the fourth inning of the game with Detroit and although nobody could tell it from the way he was pitching, he left the game voluntarily. He was still taking the ailment lightly when he reached St. Elizabeth's hospital. Manager Joe Cronin had sent him there against his objections.

X-ray pictures showed nothing the matter with the arm. There wasn't any medical term for the ailment, but the doctors feared the worst—that Grove's arm simply worn out after many years of un-failing service.

He had won 14 and lost only 3 games this season, had beaten every team in the American league —Detroit four times.

Grove said he hurt his arm in the first inning of yesterday's game at Fenway park. He fielded a bunt by Charlie Gehringer. Detroit's second baseman, and was forced to make a snap throw from the third base line to first base.

He continued to pitch the next three innings, saying nothing of the injury. At the end of the fourth he told Cronin he might not be able to continue.

JAPAN DRAFTS OFFICIAL NOTE OF WITHDRAWAL

HELSINKI, Finland—(UP)—Definite assurance that the 1940 Olympic Games will be held in Finland was received today from Finnish Olympic officials by Count Henri le Baillet-Latour, president of the International Olympic Congress.

In a telegram to the Finnish Olympic committee, Count Baillet-Latour said: "If Japan withdraws from the Olympic Games the International Olympic Committee offers holding the Games in Finland."

Thus as soon as the games are officially abandoned by Japan, they will be transferred to Finland, if present plans are carried through.

TOKYO—(UP)—Japan officially gave up the 1940 International Olympic Games today. The cabinet decided that the war in China had cost too much in men and money to permit expenditures for athletic events.

Officials of the Japanese Olympic committee reluctantly drafted a formal notice of cancellation which will be delivered to the International Olympic Congress. It had been impressed upon them that prosecution of the war against China was of vital necessity and that it might endure two years longer when western athletes would be invading the Far East if the Games were held here.

But the Olympics will be held in 1940 just the same.

Olympic officials in all parts of the world expressed a determination, to hold them despite wars in China and Spain and trouble in Europe.

The International Olympic Congress will decide what country replaces Japan as the 1940 host. An emergency meeting of the Congress probably will be called soon so that the new host will have as much time as possible to prepare.

300-YARD TEE SHOTS FEATURE SEMI-FINALS

SHAWNEE ON DELAWARE, Pa., July 15. —(UP)—Paul Runyan of White Plains N. Y., 1934 winner, gained the final round of the 21st national E. G. A. golf tournament today with a 4 and 3 victory over Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., in the 36-hole semi-finals.

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa. —(UP)—Hard-hitting Jimmy Hines of New York and dapper little Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., were out in front today at the end of the morning round of the 36 hole semi-final matches in the 21st National P. G. A. tournament.

Hines was one-up on Sammy Sneed in a slugging match.

Runyan, winner of the 1934 championship, held a two-up lead over tall Henry Picard, the "chocolate man" from Hershey, Pa., in a battle of sharpshooters.

The Sneed-Hines match was close all the way. Sneed led one up at the turn but relinquished the lead on the inward nine. Neither was ever more than one hole ahead in this battle of sluggers whose drives averaged 250 to 300 yards.

Santa Ana travels to Colton to play the San Bernardino Ponies, Anaheim and Huntington Beach collide at Huntington Beach.

Although the Stars defeated San Bernardino here during the second quarter, "Lefty" Bob Fowler and Company appear to have an edge on their home field. Fowler is the league's strikeout king, fanning anywhere from 12 to 15 every start.

Manager "Doc" Smith may have to juggle the Stars' lineup with Tom Lacy scheduled to take a civil service examination in Los Angeles and the stork flapping around the Tommy Young household.

San Bernardino has signed a new pitcher, "Bud" Mayer, and he may start against the Stars. Mayer is up from the San Bernardino city league.

CHICK THROWS SAILOR OFF AT FANS' DISGUST

A goodly group of cash customers left the Orange County Boner Bender's club last night disappointed for two reasons (1) Popeye O'Brien failed to beat "Champion" Dude Chick, which, if it should have happened, would have been a miracle and a breach of social etiquette on O'Brien's part and (2) Gene Autry, said to be Chick's manager and advertised to appear in the champion's corner, was conspicuous by his absence. The movie star was called out on location.

Chick, with the assistance of Referee Bull Montana, had the fans' pressure up to a boiling point throughout, using an assortment of "unethical" tactics to defeat the sailor at every turn, although it was obvious that Chick could have finished the sailor off at will by using strength alone. Referee Montana allowed the champ to break holds by pulling hair and brought the wrath of the gallery gods upon himself and Chick time after time for his apparent indifference.

The first fall was taken by Chick in 23:37 when he was allowed to break "foul" off the ropes, to clamp a Boston Crab hold on O'Brien. The customers spent the entire rest period giving Chick the razzberry, calling him the "chess champ" and other cute nicknames.

"Popeye" came out for the second fall with fire in his eyes and flopped Chick with a series of rope

Giants Caught Between Cyclone, Monsoon

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK—Bill Terry's New York Giants today appeared to have been caught between a cyclone and a monsoon.

Pittsburgh was the cyclone, Cincinatti, the monsoon. Clocking off 13 straight the Pirates smashed their way to the top. Then came the Reds demolishing everything in their path as they battered their way back into the thick of the National league race.

The Reds won from the Giants

again yesterday, handing them their second straight defeat, 1-0.

It was the seventh straight victory for the Reds, "Bucky" Walters scored his seventh victory and his third in a row for the Reds wielding only five hits.

Pittsburgh regained its winning stride by nosing out Brooklyn, 3-2, in 11 innings. It was a heartbreaking defeat for Fred Fitzsimmons who had the Pirates beaten, 2-0, with two out in the ninth. Then he uncorked a wild pitch and the Waner brothers scored to tie the count. Lee Handley's triple and Lloyd Waner's single drove in the winning run in the 11th.

Snapping their six-game losing streak, the Chicago Cubs triumphed over the Phillies twice, 2-0 and

5-1. Clay Bryant held the Phils to three hits in outpitching Claude

Pasas in the opener, Bill Lee limited the Phils to five hits in the nightcap to triumph over Hugh Mulcahy.

The Boston Bees made 16 hits to hand the St. Louis Cardinals their eighth straight loss, 10-5. Vince

DiMaggio led the Bees with three hits. Lou Fette kept the Cards

14 hits fairly well scattered to win his fifth game.

The New York Yankees held their half-game lead over Cleveland by nosing out the St. Louis

Browns, 5-4, in a 7-inning game halted by rain.

Mel Harder's 8-hit pitching featured Cleveland's 5-1 victory over

Washington. Harder didn't allow a runner to get past second until the ninth when Al Simmons hit a homer. Jeff Heath hit a homer with one mate on.

"Lefty" Grove scored his 14th victory as the Boston Red Sox trimmed Detroit, 12-1, but had to leave the game in the fifth inning with his fingers numb and his arm dead. Physicians who examined his arm were mystified and would not comment except to say, "It's apparently dead and has no pulse." Jimmy Fox hit homer

No. 24.

The Chicago White Sox outlasted the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-7, riding for Treesweet.

CITY LEAGUE'S 'SPOILERS' MIX

The Alliance Mutual Life and Treesweet Products teams, which furnished Santa Ana City league fans with two sparkling softball upsets Wednesday night, pair off tonight for what may be one of the most bitterly contested struggles of the second-half.

The game is scheduled at 8:30 with the two tailend clubs (M. E.

South and Montgomery Ward)

clashing in the 7:30 curtain-raiser.

Everett Winkler is again scheduled to handle the pitching burden for the Alliance Mutual Life and Walter Handley will be on the ridge for Treesweet.

Jimmie Fidler in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, July 15.—Settin' Around (Universal): Considering its rewards, movie-acting is undoubtedly the world's softest job, and movie actors who complain that they are over-worked are usually to be laughed at rather than pitied. They are not over-worked; they are merely jittery because of the monotony and seeming aimlessness of their work.

Today, for instance, I watched Deanna Durbin and Melvyn Douglas playing pocket billiards for a scene in "That Certain Age." Deanna was to miss her shot; Melvyn, left a difficult angle shot, was to make it and run the rest of the balls. The scene refused to go. They made take after take and, invariably, some slight mischance spoiled it. When I left at the end of two boring hours, they were still trying.

Add to such annoyance the fact that pictures are filmed, scene by scene, without regard to proper continuity, and it is easy to understand why the average actor goes home a nervous wreck, convinced that he has accomplished little or nothing. Melvyn Douglas summed it up rather neatly today by quoting this little verse:

"He lived in a world of make-

EXHORTS FARMERS TO SUSTAIN LIBERTY

BISHOP DECRIES TRIBUTE LEVY

OXNARD, Calif., July 15.—Characterizing the farmer as engaged in a fight to perpetuate individual liberty, Holmes Bishop, president of the Associated Farmers of California, Inc., was a speaker here today at a meeting of the Ventura County Chamber of Commerce.

"The farmer is commonly characterized as America's individualist," Bishop said. "Perhaps this is why he is so determined in his campaign to preserve the right of individual liberty."

"Suppression of Liberty." "The farmer cannot and will not submit to a closed shop which would compel his workers to pay allegiance or tribute to some outside influences for the right to bargain with him collectively, a right which workers already possess without charge."

Bishop, an orange grower from Orange in Orange county, pointed out the suppression of personal liberty in other countries in his challenge to American citizens to maintain this right here.

"Individual liberty is a precious privilege possessed by American citizens although it has been threatened or completely suppressed in many other parts of the world," he declared. "Our farmers are fighting to perpetuate that priceless heritage, the right of self-determination for our citizens by insisting on the freedom to produce and market the people's food supply and maintaining the right of men to work."

"If collective bargaining is to be in the interest of the laboring men, it must be voluntary. It cannot be voluntary unless he is assured of his constitutional right of personal freedom in choosing how he shall sell his labor."

Plan New Setup For Businessmen

Plans were being completed today for the reorganization of the Home Owned Business Men's Association, according to Harry C. Smith, who recently was appointed district manager of the organization by the state officers in San Francisco.

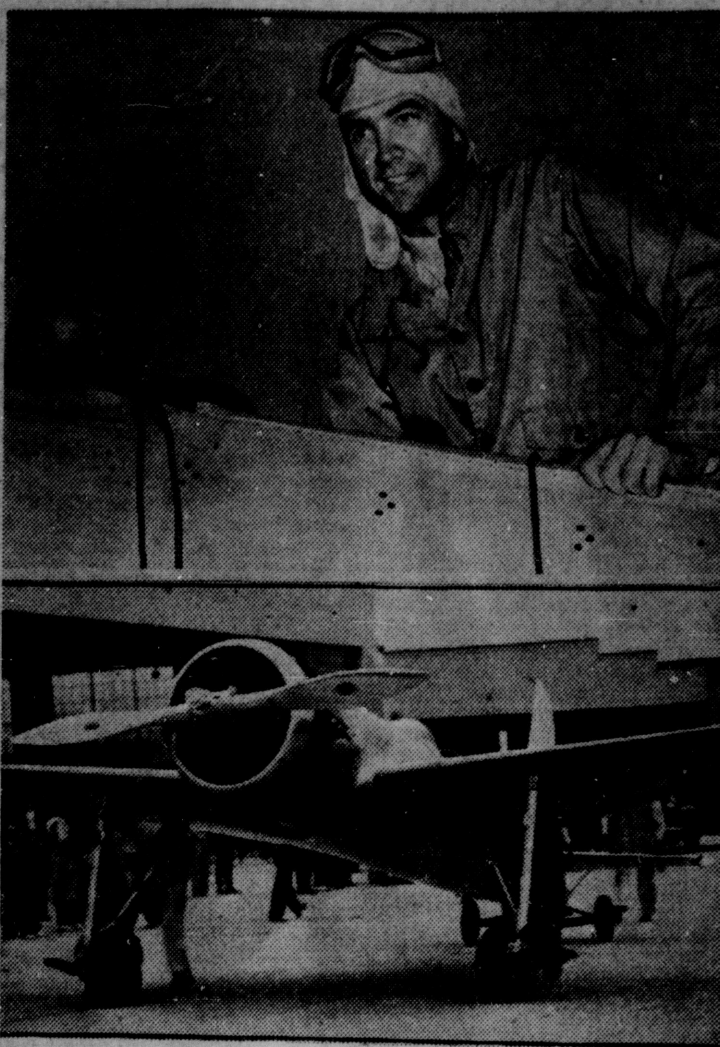

Smith replaces J. C. Metzgar in Santa Ana. Metzgar has resigned from the business men's organization to take an active part in the Orange County Taxpayers' League, an organization pledged to a tax reduction program in the state, and patterned after the plan now being used in Nebraska.

Hearing Date Set For '8th' Youth

Arraigned in Huntington Beach justice court yesterday on a burglary charge, Claude Sievert, 18, formerly of Route 1, Huntington Beach, recently of Bakersfield, was held for preliminary hearing July 20 at 10 a. m.

He with seven other Huntington Beach youths have been held for allegedly committing 50 petty thefts and burglaries in Orange county during the past year. The seven were arraigned previously.

As Hughes Won Acclaim In S. A.

FAMOUS WATER CASE AROUSES INTEREST OF LOCAL RANCHERS

While the case itself does not involve riparian rights of any ranch holdings in Orange county, the reversal this week of a San Diego Superior Court judgment by the state Supreme Court that opened the way for retrial of the famed Rancho Santa Margarita water case, nevertheless attracted much local interest. The Register was told today.

Chief point in the case concerned the uses of the head waters of the Temecula-Santa Margarita river in San Diego county. The Register was informed.

Four Major Errors
After reviewing 11 printed volumes of records, the high court found four major errors in the decision of the court of Superior Judge Lacy D. Jennings.

The case was an appeal by the Vail company and 14 other owners of land in Riverside county, totaling 79,000 acres, from a judgment and injunction preventing them from using more than 25 per cent of the water of the Temecula-Santa Margarita river and its tributaries.

Rancho Respondent
The respondent was the vast Rancho Santa Margarita, comprising the same preliminary hearing date set.

Among the woods found best for paper making, spruce ranks first, followed by hemlock, balsam, fir, poplar and willow, in respective order.

HOLLYWOOD LAUGHS AT, THEN ACCEPTS METHODS OF HUGHES

Editor's Note: Howard Hughes, famous American sportsman flier, who yesterday completed a daring and spectacular speed flight around the world, is one of the most interesting figures in aviation. Following is the third installment of a sketch of his career.

NEW YORK, July 15.—(Special to The Register)—Flying ambitions were held in abeyance after the death of Hughes senior. Howard went to Los Angeles and lived with his uncle, Rupert Hughes, the author, who at the time was engaged in writing and producing screen plays.

Thrown into the atmosphere of the studios, young Hughes found it to his liking. Technical problems fascinated him, he watched all phases of camera work, staging and directing. At the age of 20 he came into control of his father's estate, in accordance with Texas law which provides that the assets of an estate can be turned over to a minor if he proves his worth.

Produces For Himself
For the next six years Hughes devoted much of his time to motion pictures. He financed a film for a friend and was undismayed by its failure. Convinced that he knew enough of the business, he decided to produce for himself.

The output follows: "Everybody's Acting," 1927; "Two Arabian Knights," 1927; "The Racket," 1928; "Hell's Angels," 1929-30; "Front Page," 1931; "Scarface," 1931; and "Sky Devils," 1932.

Hollywood refused at first to take Hughes seriously. A young man with millions was not a novelty there and the moment was awaited when sharper and swindlers had taken big chunks out of a fat bankroll. That moment has still to arrive. Hughes made mistakes, for a time he was paying for workmen and equipment far beyond his needs. But he was not long in getting at the bottom of problems, in applying keen common sense.

Jean Makes Her Bow
The upshot was that "Everybody's Acting" and "Two Arabian Knights" made money. Hollywood began to sit up. Then the old enthusiasm for flying returned and the outlines of "Hell's Angels" began to form. The picture was made first in a silent version and after countless difficulties had been overcome, it was ready for release.

But sound pictures were just being launched, completely overturning the industry. Hughes decided to re-take the entire film, with sound. New artists had to be found and Jean Harlow made her bow in the films as a result.

Carrying the phrase of "platinum blond" around the world.
Hollywood Accepts Hughes
Original estimates for the picture had been $600,000. When the final version was ready to be sent out, bills totalled a neat $4,000,000. The moment seemed ripe for Hollywood scoffing and "I told you so." But "Hell's Angels" was an immediate success, the airplane shots were hailed as masterly and the film returned a profit of $2,000,000. Hollywood accepted Hughes.

Films such as "Front Page" and "Scarface" scored major hits. They introduced new trends into the newspaper and gangster pictures. They also introduced such later stars as Paul Muni, George Raft, Louis Wolheim and Ann Dvorak. But censor trouble had bothered Hughes for some time. His combinations of comedy, satire and spectacle failed to draw the full approval of the reigning powers. Difficulties increased when he proposed a film satirizing Hollywood. And Hughes' interest in motion pictures waned. He turned again to the air, where probably his greatest interest always had been.

TUSTIN DRAIN TO CURB FLOODS

Additional flood protection for Orange county will be made possible through construction of the proposed East Tustin storm drain project, it was learned today at the Public Works Administration, according to an exclusive message to The Register from Washington, D. C.

The Public Works Administration recently approved a grant of $56,897 to defray 45 per cent of the cost of the project.

Channel of Concrete
Under the project, a reinforced concrete channel, to be known as the East Tustin storm sewer for the control of storm waters originating in a portion of the hilly area north-east of the city of Tustin, will be built.

PWA officials said that in times of excess rainfall, the storm water from this drainage area causes extreme damage to agricultural land and public property.

Much of the future rainfall flood damage in this area is expected to be eliminated under the PWA project.

Sunny Flowers Give Charm To Luncheon Plan

Like drifts of sunlight were flowers, beams and other appointments of the table around which Mrs. Frederic Dunstan grouped her guests for luncheon yesterday afternoon at Danigers. For having adopted a yellow color motif, the hostess applied it to the table design in charming manner.

A central flower cluster showed every variation of the sunny hue, developed in gladioli, corns and the star of Shasta daisies. Prim little baby sinias lifted their heads from yellow plumes, and the color appeared even in details of the tempting menu served.

For the afternoon of bridge play, the group sought the Dunstan home, 524 South Birch street, where spacious rooms lent themselves admirably to the flowers which smiled a welcome. These were bewildering in profusion, form and lovely pastel colors, and many were gifts of interested friends.

Tables were in readiness for contract play, and when the afternoon drew to a close, table prizes of miniature flower vases in creamy pottery, rewarded Mesdames Irwin P. Landis, Joseph H. Daniger, William Eaves and Roy Hall.

Included on Mrs. Dunstan's guest list in addition to the prize-winners, were Mesdames Charles Bressler, Anton Segerstrom, A. G. Flagg, George Sattler, M. Burr Wellington, Emil Wagner, Charles Swanner, W. Bradford Hellis, Arthur May, Helen Cappellet, Harvey Maxwell, Richard Couden and Dana Washburn.

Another of their informal summer parties was held last night by members of Mothers Study club, who were joined by their husbands and families for a steak bake at Anaheim park. Each member contributed a dish to the inviting menu.

Present were Messrs and Mesdames Virgil Klesner and children LaVonne and Carl; Kenneth Loughton, Kenneth Jr. and JoLana; Ernest Hill, Jerry and Gene; Nylind Hurd and daughter Nancy; Cotten Bennett and son Bobbie; Fred Ray and son, Charles; J. E. Sims and children, Shirley, James and Carl Dexter; John Fraley and children, Walter and Jean; L. D. Spencer, Sharon and Danny and Mrs. C. E. Bowman.

Plans were made to hold a similar affair Thursday evening, July 28 at Orange City park. Each family is to bring meat, a covered-dish and table service.

Parchment Scrolls Reveal Young Couple's Betrothal

An air of subdued excitement which seemed to pervade the home of Mrs. Joseph H. Metzgar, 816 Bush street, yesterday afternoon, was explained to tea guests of Mrs. Metzgar, when they read tiny parchment scrolls which they received in the dining room. For the message on these scrolls was "Betrothed: Eleanor Clow Metzgar, Reuel Walker Klein," and guests were quick to express interest to their hostess and her lovely daughter, in the happy news.

It was amidst the most vivid flowers that guests were received, with Master Dean Paterson, small son of the Douglas Patersons, to meet them at the door. Mrs. Metzgar, gracious as always, was in aqua blue lace, with which she wore pink tuberosus begonias, sent her by her future son-in-law.

Receiving with her was her bride-elect daughter, Miss Eleanor Metzgar, whose big dark eyes sparkled with even more than their usual lustre above the gardenias sent her by her fiancé. One of the city's loveliest girls, she was especially charming yesterday in a frock of soft blue net, its full skirt banded with narrow black velvet ribbon accepting the little velvet sleevelet bolero that completed its design.

In the receiving line with mother and daughter, was Mrs. Bertha Klein, wearing chiffon velvet in white trailing vine design on black, and she too wore a corsage cluster from her son. Miss Ethel Walker, who divided her duties between receiving and pouring tea, was handsome in black chiffon with gardenias.

Assisting Group
Quite as beautifully gowned were the friends who aided throughout the afternoon. Assisting in the living room were Mesdames E. B. Sprague, W. B. Williams and C. F. Skirvin. In the dining room, Miss Metzgar's sister, Mrs. Lawrence Minge, and their cousin, Mrs. Douglas Paterson, were in charge. Mrs. Minge wore filmy black chiffon with a striking collar arrangement of dusty pink flower petals. Mrs. Paterson's afternoon gown of Windsor blue had an accent of silver lame. Close friends assisting in serving were Miss Mildred Spicer, Miss Wilma Hoy, Mrs. Alex Brownridge and Mrs. Wyckoff Hoxie.

For the interval during which Miss Walker poured tea, John A. Tessman, gowned in rose lace, presided at the silver coffee urn opposite her. Later they were succeeded by Mrs. Arthur Lyon in black chiffon and lace, and Mrs. Charles Spicer in flowered chiffon with filmy black finger-tip coat. Many of the flowers gracing this and other rooms of the home, were sent by interested friends, including Mrs. John Tessman, Mrs. Arthur Lyon, Mrs. Terry Stephenson and Mrs. E. B. Sprague. The table was in bridal motif, its floral linen cloth of embroidery and fillet lace its tapers in crystal standlights, and its shallow bowl of water lilies from slim green buds to full blown flowers mingled with rosebuds, all in bridal white.

News Is Told
While guests were enjoying the tea dainties, the Douglas Patersons' small daughter Diane, a veritable rosebud of a maid in her pink organza frock, distributed the announcement scrolls from a little cut glass basket.

Guests were interested in learning something of the wedding plans of the young couple, and were told that early autumn will bring the auspicious day, although no definite date was revealed. Miss Metzgar, a member of the city library staff, prepared for her profession at Riverside Library school after Santa Ana Junior college and University of California at Berkeley. Her fiancé, Mr. Klein, followed graduation from San Mateo junior college, with some three years on the San Francisco Chronicle. When his mother and sister came to Santa Ana where Miss Walker is city librarian, he joined them about a year ago, and took a district post with Sun Life Assurance company, one of the leading insurance companies of the world. Southland headquarters are in San Diego, and Mr. Klein will be representative in this district.

Many Guests
Family friends to whom the romance was so pleasantly disclosed included the Misses Ethel Walker, Preble Drake, Jeanette McFadden, Vanche Plumb, Lida Crookshank, Marion Crookshank, Constance Crookshank, Louise Kaiser, Wilma Hoy, Leona Calkins, Leon Baxter, Ruth Hilyard, Albert Carter, Ruth Bishop, Mary Bowyer, Verna Ramsey, Sarah Crane, Mildred Spicer, Mary Ford, Jean Ferry, Mollie Dreizen.

Mesdames Bertha Klein, W. B. Williams, Alex Brownridge, E. B. Sprague, C. F. Skirvin, Wyckoff Hoxie, Harry Spencer, Terry E. Stephenson, Terry E. Stephenson Jr., O. H. Barr, J. C. Sexton, W. Kelley and Mrs. Ray S. Chandler.

Mesdames Leonard G. Swales, Leslie Aaron, J. I. Clark, Emrys D. White, Robert Northcross, W. W. Hoy, Tarver Montgomery, Lewis F. Moulton, Glenn Mathis, G. E. Bruns, Alice Peterson, Robert Alexander, W. H. Harrison, George Briggs, F. H. Paterson, Charles Swanner, J. B. Roberts, Horace Evans and Lawrence Minge.

Pantry Shower Is Feature Of Dancing Party

Quite the merriest affair in which the younger set has taken part this summer was the barn dance at which a quartet of hostesses entertained last night in compliment to those recent newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Pinkston. Mrs. Pinkston is the former Miss Betty West.

Although the bridegroom and bride knew that the party had been planned in their honor, they did not realize that a pantry shower was to be one of the features of this unique affair. Hostesses were the Misses Josephine Flaherty, Mildred McCullough, Evelyn Witt and Harriet Fowler, entertaining at the home of Miss Fowler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fowler, 2552 Valencia street.

However, the evening was spent in the long low garage which served as setting for a "print and cord" affair, informality prevailed throughout the evening. Frank Hertzberg provided the recording set which made popular music available.

Young men of the party were requested to take part in an entertaining feature during which they modeled old time hats, and depicted emotions according to special directions. Guessing these various portrayals most successful prize, Miss Dolly Raitt, who won a prize, Miss Margaret Thomas and Melvin Baron won awards in the balloon dance, while Miss Helen Andrews received a prize in another contest.

Ice cream, cake and coffee were served late in the evening, which was climaxed with the presentation of pantry shower gifts to Mr. and Mrs. Pinkston.

Tomorrow they will be driven into the mountainous country of Red Meadows back of Mammoth Lakes, where they will join other members of California Sierra club for a leisurely pack trip southward over the Muir trail. Some 200 miles will be covered by the party in the two weeks' time allotted for the outing, and many club members will cover the distance a-foot and essay climbs of the more important peaks en route.

Seaside Motif Adds Charm To Luncheon Hour

Two very charming girls now visiting in Santa Ana were incentive for an interesting luncheon at which Miss Bettie Lacy entertained yesterday in her home, 705 South Broadway, with Miss Betty La Blant of Minneapolis, Minn., and Miss Suzanne Thompson of Waco, Tex., as her guests of honor.

Miss La Blant arrived a fortnight ago to make a summer visit with Miss Nancy Capelin, 623 South Broadway. Miss Thompson and her mother, Mrs. Joseph P. Thompson, are enjoying a Southland summer with the latter's sister, Mrs. Clarence Nisson of Red Hill avenue. Both have inspired various gay affairs, but none has been prettier than Miss Lacy's luncheon.

She chose as her theme the carefree days of Southland beach life, and the table where guests found places by means of cards depicting pretty girls in informal summer attire, offered a convincing seaside scene. Sailboats danced across glistening waves, and on the sandy beach tiny doll figures portrayed the games and swimming that later offered actual entertainment to the group.

Mrs. Mark Lacy assisted her daughter in welcoming the young people, and served the tempting courses of the luncheon. Places were indicated for the hostess, Miss Lacy, and her honor guests, the Misses Thompson and La Blant, and the Misses Nancy Cappellet, Marjorie Walls, Betty Timmons, Carolyn Wells, Harriet Spicer, Marilyn Dick, Jean Dowds, Patricia Emison, Mary Cory, Patsy Miller, Ruth Ann Segerstrom, Peggy Holloway and Barbara Tucker.

Gift packages for the two honor guests proved to contain vivid gypsy bandannas, which they proceeded to knot about their heads when the whole party donned beach attire and sped away to Lido Isle for swimming and sand sports through a happy afternoon.

Guests were received in the garden, where tables had been set up in the shade of pepper trees. Small baskets of sinias formed colorful centerpieces. Mrs. Allen assisted her daughter in serving luncheon, and in carrying out other party plans.

The group went indoors for a pleasant session devoted to sewing on linen luncheon sets which were presented to Mrs. Dorn. In addition, she received a set of sherry glasses and plates to add to the Canton pattern crystal which she is assembling.

Present with Mrs. Dorn and her mother, Mrs. G. W. Leive, and Mrs. Comito and Mrs. Allen, were Mesdames Merwin Carman, Francis Hall, Ray Trevorror, and the Misses Marian Hawk and Betty Hawk, this city; the Misses Eulabelle Smith and Mildred Rohrs, Orange.

Of all the berry pies concocted down through the years, none is better than a deep-dish green apple pie with blackberries. I recommend it for dessert for a warm Sunday, because it can be made on Saturday and improves by standing.

Use a baking dish with sides at least two inches deep. Fill the dish two-thirds full with thinly sliced green apple, liberally interspersed with sugar and butter, but no spices.

Over the apples strew a heaping cupful of blackberries or logans, sugar them and tuck the fruit away with a blanket of rich pie crust. Sift sugar over the crust, dot with butter and start baking in a very hot oven until the crust browns, then reduce heat and finish baking the fruit. Serve cold with plain cream.

The Pennsylvania Dutch have a choice household jewel in their raspberry cream custard pie, and this is how they make it:

Line a pie pan with rich pastry, letting plenty of crust flap over the side. Mix 1 heaping cup sugar with 1-2 teaspoons flour, sifting it several times. Strew bottom crust with a thickish layer before putting in raspberries. Strew top of berries with balance of sugar, put on a top crust, cut to fit snugly inside the rim of pan and slash four ways at center. Now, take all that extra flap on the bottom crust, draw it securely up and over the top crust, pinching edges into a nice design. Dot crust with sugar and butter and bake in a hot oven. When the pie is baked, carefully lift up those top slashes and pour in a cupful of very thick custard made with cream, eggs, sugar and a speck of corn starch. Chill well before serving.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Italian Fruit Bread

1 cake yeast dissolved in 2 cups tepid water
Add 1 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 well beaten eggs and 1-2 cup melted fat
Use about 7 cups of bread flour, well sifted.

II
1 cup whole unblanched almonds
1 cup dried apricots, sliced
1 cup sultana raisins
1 cup sliced dates
1 cup sliced citron.

—a tested recipe.
Make up all of part one at one time, but add the fruit in part two before the dough becomes too thick to take the fruit. Knead well and let the bread double in bulk, cut down, shape into loaves, bake in a medium oven when light, and brush tops of the hot loaves with powdered sugar mixed with a little cream and vanilla.

Simple Method For Canning String Beans

5 pounds tender string beans, washed, and made ready for jars. Combine in kettle:
3 quarts hot water
1-2 cup vinegar
1-2 cup sugar
1-4 cup salt.

—a tested recipe.
Boil the pickle mixture for 10 minutes, drop in the beans, bring again to the boil and hold there for 10 minutes. Pack the beans in hot sterilized jars, fill with the pickling liquid, seal, and process in water bath, 1 hour. Cool jars, bottoms up, then give tops an extra twist if they are the screw type.

Day at Beach Enjoyed By S. E. A. Club

So delightful was the beach party shared Wednesday by S.E.A. Women's club, that members were unanimous in wishing to repeat the experience for their August party. Wednesday's affair was held in the home of Mrs. Glenn Tramel, 1516 Miramar Drive, Balboa, and each member added some tempting dish to the luncheon menu served at noon.

Gay Party At Seaside Is Birthday Event

Down at the beach home, 211 Bay avenue, Balboa, where the Lloyd H. Banks family is spending the summer, the 11th birthday anniversary of Miss Gloria Banks occasioned a happy party Tuesday evening.

A bevy of her young friends, many of whom are enjoying a summer stay at the seaside, took part in the celebration, enjoying a succession of games as preliminary to a winner's roast on the ocean front. All enjoyed watching Gloria open her gift packages, for each one brought her a pretty remembrance. Included among the presents was a luscious angel food cake from Mr. and Mrs. Martin Keeler of this city.

On Miss Gloria's guest list were her sister, Betty Banks, Barbara Rohrer, Pat Rowen, Los Angeles; Welch, and Barbara Montgomery, Santa Ana; Ida Lou Harris, Laguna Beach; Dorothy Dodd, Balboa Island; Joy Hansen, Riverside; Pat Rowen, Los Angeles; Ruth and Jean Aldridge, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Gloria Wilmsen, Anaheim; Beverly and Jean Grace, Balboa.

Three out of every five new automobiles purchased are bought on the installment plan, according to statistics.

Two Foundation Fund Parties Given for Woman's Club

Two more pleasant affairs have added to this week's sociability among Santa Ana Woman's club members, and at the same time increased their donation to the foundation fund.

Wednesday Mrs. R. A. McMahon, junior past president of the club, opened her Long Beach home for a covered dish luncheon followed by contract play. Flowers, food and friendliness were pleasant phases of the afternoon's hospitality shared by the hostess with Miss Linda Krocker, Mesdames Earl M. Waycott, L. E. Tarbox, E. O. Ahern, Earl Lepper, Leonard Musick, Parrie Salter, Edna Webb, Doris Warner, Louis McGowan, P. A. Martin and Leo Wright. Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Wright made the afternoon's two high scores in contract and received attractive prizes.

On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. F. W. Dean entertained in her home, 1103 Louise street. Flowers were charmingly grouped to adorn the tables where guests were served the dainties of the dessert course before forming in bridge foursomes. Mrs. Edna Wells, who instructs the players in contract, presided at the tea urn.

At the conclusion of the party when Mrs. Clyde Cave was awarded prize for high score, another gift package was presented Mrs. Wells. They played in competition with the hostess, Mrs. Dean, and Mesdames Charles W. Clarke, H. R. McNay, Earl Lepper, Leo Wright, W. E. Dennis and Louis McGowan.

Ross-Crawford Wedding Is Quiet Affair

Added to the ranks of July newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Roy Alonso Ross Jr., whose marriage took place Wednesday evening in Broadway Wedding chapel, with the Rev. W. S. McDougal officiating. Mrs. Ross is the former Miss Iris

Mae Crawford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Crawford, 1130 West Pine street. The bridegroom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ross, 1100 Oak street. An intimate group of friends and relatives attended the nuptials, for which the bride wore a flowered chiffon frock. The new Mr. and Mrs. Ross plan to make their home in this city, where the bridegroom is a service station operator.

First Day Cancellations
The question has come to the writer as to what are the requirements for a first day cancellation cover. Any size envelope can be used that will pass the U. S. postal laws but of course it is best to use the regular size, 3 1/2 inches by 5 1/2 inches and have all your first day covers uniform. You can use a plain envelope or one with cachet on it; for instance I have before me a 4c President Issue First Day Cover with picture of President James Madison on the left side in the colors of black and purple red like the stamp's colors. The other covers are similar and conform to the stamps color. Of course this makes the series of 31 envelopes uniform and neater, but pictures are not necessary.

The envelope is self addressed or addressed to anyone you wish to receive it. One can send up to 10 envelopes to the Postmaster where the first day of issue is to be made along with a money order, NOT STAMPS, covering the cost of the stamps necessary for all envelopes. Remember it requires 3c to send a letter and if the stamp to be issued is over 3c enclose enough in the money order to cover the price of one stamp on each envelope. For instance on July 21st, the 5c Monroe stamp is to be issued from Washington, D. C. For 10 covers it will require 50c in your money order. When just one or two covers are wanted it is cheaper to buy from a dealer as he gets many as cheap for his money order as it cost you for two or one. The first day cover when finished should have on it the names of the town or city with the time of day and date and the "First Day of Issue" cancelled across the stamp and the stamp "tied" to the envelope, that is the cancellation should be partly on the stamp or stamps and partly on the envelope so that if the stamp was removed or replaced with another stamp it would not fit the cancellation. Some blocks of . the writer has seen lately have all the cancellation. Some blocks of 4 one on the envelope. These are not "tied" to cover and could be replaced by other stamps. This would not pass as a real first day cover and could be faked, although they might be all right and an honest first day. The writer collects first day covers and will be glad to show any one just about a complete collection of Commemorative covers.

What's Your Opinion on the Ten Scarcest Stamps?
In 1912, the Philadelphia Gazette, a semi-monthly, ran a series on the 250 World's Scarcest Stamps, and it may be of current interest to list the "first fifteen" in the list. These are as follows:

1. British Guiana, 1856, 1c black.
2. Mauritius 1847, 2 pence.
3. Mauritius 1847, 1 penny.
4. Hawaii 1852, 2c "Missionary."

5. British Guiana 1850, 2c rose.
6. Moldavia 1858, 27 paras.
7. Cape of Good Hope 1861, 4 p. woodblock, error in blue.
8. Cape of Good Hope 1861, 1 p. woodblock, error in blue.
9. Western Australia 1854, 4 p. blue with center inverted.
10. United States 1869, 15c with inverted center.
11. United States 1869, 24c with inverted center.
12. United States 1869, 50c with inverted center.
13. Moldavia 1858, $1 parales, blue on blue paper.
14. British Guiana 1850, 2c pale rose.
15. Mauritius 1848, 2 p. blue on bluish, error PENOE.

Constitution Sales
First day sales of the 3c Constitution commemorative June 21st at Philadelphia was 395,892 stamps. First day covers canceled were 232,873. The total amount of money taken in on covers and stamp sales was $24,443.13.

Spain New Issues
SPAIN—The Spanish post office officials on June 15, 1938, overprinted "CORREO AEREO" and various values on the 25c lake stamp of 1931, depicting the Black Virgin. Originally this stamp was part of the interesting Montserrat Issue.

The overprints in various colors, and the totals as officially printed, as well as their catalogue arrangement are as follows:
241 50 cts on 25c lake (B), 75,000.
282 1PTA on 25c lake (G), 80,000.
243 125PTS on 25c lake (R), 100,000.
244 150PTS on 25c lake (BI), 93,500.
245 2PTS on 25c lake (B), 60,000.

Old Letters
Many times has the writer been asked to value old letters. The following gives one an idea as to these folded letters used before the postage stamp.
Q.—In an old attic I discovered quite a few old letters which when folded made the envelope. They were dated 1833 and 1834...with N. Y. State towns, some free to the Postmaster and some with 12-1/2, 10, 18, etc., in the upper right corner; some with no hand stamp at all. Are they worth anything?—W. S. P.

A.—They must have been worth a thrill to you, at least, and prove that finds are still to be made. Without seeing the letters themselves I would not wish to say how much they might bring. From your further description I would say that the market price for them might not be more than five cents each. On the other hand there might be some that are uncommon and worth as much as a dollar or two. But they have no inherent value at all.

LISTS AVOCADO FARM FACTORS

By HAROLD E. WAHLBERG
Farm Advisor

Some 60 avocado growers of Orange and Los Angeles counties participated in the orchard tour recently conducted by the agricultural extension service to study tree and soil management problems. The first stop at the Griswold orchard in La Habra Heights featured permanent cover crops and underhead irrigation. Italian rye grass is used by Griswold to prevent soil erosion. He stated that the shallow roots of this plant did not compete with the orchard trees. He was careful to apply nitrogen fertilizers and irrigation water to prevent competition for fertility and moisture. During the growing season the grass was mowed two or three times to return the green bulky growth to the soil and facilitate irrigation operations.

Portable Sprinkling
This ranch also uses a portable low head sprinkling system that has given them satisfactory results from the standpoint of even moisture distribution. Several windhammers have been installed here to fight the frost if and when needed. These machines not only blow the air but also heat it from a central heating unit. It was explained that these machines are on trial.

Terrace Demonstration
The Dr. Charlton avocado orchard provided an ideal demonstration of a good job of terracing. Much of the hill land in this district has been terraced for tree planting. The storms of last spring caused considerable damage from sloughing of terraces that have been constructed on too steep grades.

The agricultural engineering division of the University of California has found that the range of limit of grade for cuts in shales and weathered sedimentary materials is from a 1 to 1 slope to a 1 to 3-4 slope.

The reason for the occasion of terrace sloughing in heavy storms may be traced to excessive steepness of the slope structures that are not able to resist the movement of saturated soil strata.

Fertilizer Practice
The final stop of the orchard tour was made at the P. J. Weisel orchard, where Ray Marsh, superintendent, reported on the results of the fertilizer test plots established eight years ago in 1930. Four plots have been maintained and tree production records kept for each year during the eight year period. The trees were five years old in 1930 when the plots were established.

Record was also kept on four sunblotched trees in the orchard covering the same period. These diseased trees averaged only 260 fruits per tree.

The cost of production records and the economic analysis of avocado production conducted by the extension service in Orange county during the past eight years clearly indicate that returns to the grower are influenced largely by the yield factor. Good production is dependent on healthy trees, good soil, freedom from wind and frost, desirable variety and good management.

On $2540 Investment
The eight year economic study reveals that it took an average of 1656 pounds of avocados per acre at 9.9 cents per pound to meet the cost of production and depreciation. It took another 1289 pounds of avocados per acre to pay 5 per cent interest on the average investment of $2540 per acre. To break even then on the basis of production costs during the past eight years, plus an earning of 5 per cent on the above investment, the orchard should produce about 3000 pounds of avocados per acre per year, at an average return of 9.9 cents per pound.

Orchards in the study have ranged in long time production records from an annual average of 6300 pounds per acre to less than 1000 pounds per acre. The average yield for the 18 representative mature orchards in the study for the eight year period was 2624 pounds per acre per year, which is about 400 pounds below the 3000 pounds necessary to meet all costs, including 5 per cent interest on the investment. It may be concluded from this economic study that a paying orchard is one that produced better than average yields.

PLANE "BURST THE CLOUDS"

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (UP)—County Judge Grizzle, en route to court, was told by a hobo, who accosted him for a coin, that the real cause of cloudbursts are airplanes, which set up currents of air that disturb atmospheric conditions that finally result in the bursting of clouds and the down-pour of rain. The judge is still figuring how much he really ought to have given the man for this new scientific information.

War Memories

The Great War is recalled by no less than four different stamp designs received this month, two being from France and two from Czechoslovakia. The French stamps are charity stamps in aid of funds for erecting war memorials, and they comprise two stamps in one design portraying a French infantryman in the trenches and inscribed "To the glory of the French Infantry," and a single stamp illustrating the memorial to be erected in honor of the French Army Medical Service. The Czechoslovakian stamps are two single commemoratives recording the twentieth anniversary of the battles on the Western and Italian fronts in which the Czech legions took part during the Allied general offensive of mid-1918. They bear respectively the names of the engagements at Vaucluse and Doss Alto; but they are intended to commemorate also the battles of Terron-sur-Aiane, Chestres and Vandy on the French front, and of the Piave, Val Bellia, Clima and Tre Pioni on the Italian front. Each of these stamps may be found so tenanted with an ornamental label in the same size as the stamp and inscribed with the names of all the engagements on that particular front. The French front commemorative depicts three Czechs in French uniform, one of them at the "ready," one about to throw a grenade, and one fallen, with dropped gas-mask. The Italian front commemorative shows a Czech legionary in Italian uniform.

GARDEN IS SCENE
FOR CHURCH PARTY

ORANGE, July 15.—The beautiful garden of Mrs. Fred Swayze, 272 North Waverly street, was the setting for an afternoon party for members of the Women's Fellowship of the Presbyterian church yesterday. More than 65 members attended. The July group of the fellowship, headed by Mrs. Rose Carlson, were hostesses.

Program chairman of the day was Miss Estella Campbell, who chose as a theme, "Echoes of Presbyterial," which was held in Los Angeles last Monday. Orange women who attended spoke briefly giving reports of Presbyterial activities. Speakers were Mrs. Florence McCoy, Mrs. John Hirst, Mrs. M. L. Pearson, Mrs. R. W. Jones, Mrs. George Campbell and Miss Campbell.

Accord numbers were played by Maxine Brown, Carolyn Hager, and Mrs. Joy Elder, who entertained while members enjoyed Mrs. Swayze's garden. Attracting the most attention among the growing plants were the gerbera, which were also used in a centerpiece on the tea table.

Mrs. Clyde Watson, Mrs. M. L. Pearson and Mrs. Henry Campbell were at the tea, serving the guests on bright pottery. Refreshments were served under a canopied enclosure in the garden, where Mrs. Swayze grows her rare potted plants.

A horseshoe, a singletree, and two heavy pieces of iron were welded together by lighting that struck the blacksmith shop of L. J. Scrimani of Watsonville, Calif.

BIOGRAPHIES ARE GIVEN AT MEETING

ORANGE, July 15.—Mrs. W. E. Gorton gave the biographies of three of her associates in work in the Women's Aid society of the First Methodist church at a meeting of the group held at Epworth hall. After describing the three women and giving facts concerning their hobbies and lives, Mrs. Gorton asked those present to identify the trio.

The three women proved to be Mrs. Claudia Boyer whose hobby was said to be fancy work and raising chickens, Mrs. Addie Kenyon whose hobby was named as cooking, and Mrs. Anna Breon whose hobby is giving, especially in providing gifts for children.

Plans were made to join with other church groups in observance of the Golden Jubilee which mark the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Orange Methodist church on September 18. Mrs. R. W. Hull and Mrs. Frank D. Batchelor head the committee.

Mrs. M. V. Allen presided and Circle No. 4 was in charge of the luncheon served at noon. On Tuesday Circle Nos. 1 and 2 will meet all day at the city park; No. 3 will meet in the home of Mrs. Frank Nuslein on North Lemon street, and No. 4 in the home of Mrs. Flora Campbell, North Orange street.

Our Children

OBEDIENCE BY EMOTIONAL APPEAL

"Baby, don't do that."
"I want to."
"Don't do that. Mother will cry."
The baby, two and a half years old, kept on beating the pan with the spoon and mother covered her face with her hands and cried loudly. The little one's hammering slowed down, his eyes grew big and troubled. His lip trembled and he broke into loud crying, drowning out the sound of his mother's minnie anguish.

The hammering had stopped, but the weeping that took its place was scarcely more desirable. The mother had used her child's affection for her to gain obedience, and the price was a strain on the little one's emotions. That is about as bad a way to gain co-operation as can be found in a day's march.

A child's emotions should not be stirred uselessly. That puts a strain on its nerves and in time if the practice is continued will make the child emotionally unstable. Mental health is threatened by such methods of discipline. The cure is worse than the disease. Apart from that, the mother risks her child's affection. If he learns, as he must under such a scheme, that his mother's tears are theatrical devices used to force him to meet her wishes, he will soon laugh at them, take them as part of the game and do what he can to induce his mother to play. That sets the stage for trouble.

Mothers who cry or put on a scene to force their children to their will may succeed in gaining outward compliance. The price the children pay is very high. They cannot feel free to do what they would like to do because there is a constant threat of a mother's tears, a mother's heart attack, or temper tantrum. These children are prisoners in the fullest sense of the word. Their one desire is to escape. They may be held by a sense of duty, or fear, but it is their body that is held not their minds, nor their spirits. And that is an empty offering, as such mothers learn to their grief.

A mother's sorrow over the wrong-doing of her child is one of the greatest forces for well-doing in a child's life. "I couldn't do that because it would be wrong, and if I did such a wrong it would hurt my mother," is the true expression of the right relationship between mother and child. To sham this relationship is to kill it, and with it, the strongest hold a mother has on her child's behavior.

Never make an emotional appeal of that sort to a child. It cheapens the one who makes the appeal and weakens the one to whom it is made. Don't make your love a prize to be purchased by obedience to your will. Give freely in season and out, in good behavior and bad. Let the child know that it is unalloyed and that mother's tears, if they must be shed, will be shed in private, in the bitterness of her lonely heart. Lonely because the child of his love has injured himself, not her, and left her desolate. Mother-and-child relationship is too precious to risk.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three cent stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply. (Copyright, 1938, The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

DRIVE CAREFULLY —SAVE A LIFE—

ON THE SKIDS

One of the first signs of the impending death of a once essential feature of the national scene is its adoption as a kind of recreational luxury.

What's going to take the place of cowhands isn't quite apparent, but the sign of death is certainly on roping and tying. "With the gradual disappearance of cowboys except in Hollywood," runs a recent news dispatch from Salinas, Calif., "a club of 40 members has been organized to keep the species from becoming extinct." Money is to be spent on the purchase of a herd of long-necked steers which will serve the sole purpose of keeping the amateur bulldoggers in practice.

The implications of the news are rather sad, but the story serves as a reminder of how the average man can keep himself informed a little ahead of the times on important trends. Think what a gratification it will be some day to read in the papers of:

Playboys dressing up in old clothes and forming a bread line, just for the quaintness of it.

Historically-minded society girls sticking their tongues out at each other, pretending to be capital and labor.

Wealthy sportsmen gathering to make after-dinner speeches, just to keep the thing alive among themselves.

COULD THEY ASK FOR LESS

"For many years the railroads have been the source of a steady flow of jobs at good wages; huge purchases of the products of other industries, and enormous tax payments to the government," said J. M. Fitzgerald, a railroad expert, recently. "But this flow cannot continue if we dry up the source—and we are drying up the source. As this source disappears, the investor and his savings will disappear. So will jobs and wages. And what is more important, service will be impaired—the best and cheapest railroad service on the face of the globe."

There are defeatists who claim that the railroad problem is insoluble unless some dangerous step such as government ownership of the lines is taken. But there is utterly no evidence to prove this. J. J. Pelly, president of the Association of American Railroads, has stated that if the lines are given equality of treatment with their competitors, they will solve their own problems. He added that if the railroads' specific suggestions for legislative and regulatory policies are accepted, "once more we shall see that national prosperity is geared to railroad prosperity."

The first essential step is to give the railroads greater freedom to adjust rates to meet competitive situations; to adjust service to the demands of traffic, and to adjust their expenses to the conditions of their business. And, finally, a regulatory policy applied to all carriers alike.

This is the gist of the suggestions the railroads have made. They ask no favors—no subsidies—no preferential treatment over their competitors. They ask only a fair deal, and the right to run their business as all other businesses are run—which means the right to charge rates that will pay expenses and earn a moderate return, and the right to fit outgo to income. The railroads say that if this is done they can solve their own problems. Could they ask for much less?

POLITICIANS DESTROY BUSINESS

According to recent news dispatches, the government's vast power program in Nebraska, which involves the creation of a great publicly-subsidized hydro-electric system that would virtually blanket the state, and destroy all or part of the investments of the privately-owned, privately-financed, highly taxed and publicly-regulated utilities, is not faring so well. The citizens of Nebraska are beginning to wonder just what is going to happen if the program goes through as scheduled.

Farmers fear that they will lose water resources that are vital to agriculture. And cities and towns, say the reports, fear that it is possible that the government projects would result in higher electric rates than are now charged by the private companies—in addition to the fact that the socialization of the industry would automatically remove great sources of tax revenue and add new tax burdens.

It is a curious commentary on the state of the political mind that the elected administrators of government are attempting to force such ventures as this on a tax-burdened people, in the face of the fact that in election after election the people have voted down government ownership of power properties. The American people today aren't worrying about the cost of power—they know it is an infinitesimal item in the average family or business budget. They are worrying about employment. They are worrying about political destruction of productive industry. They are worrying about their savings. They are worrying about increased taxes. And they are worrying about the mounting public debt.

Untold millions have been spent in Nebraska and elsewhere for projects which simply duplicate a service the country already enjoys and which frighten and depress heavily-taxed private industry. Now the politicians want to spend still more for such purposes. The only encouraging factor in the situation is that signs are now appearing that the public is beginning to wake up and protest.

News Behind the News

By SENATOR HARRY F. BYRD

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The question of federal government reorganization is scheduled for early consideration when Congress meets again.

The evidence is overwhelming that reorganization of the executive agencies of the government for economy efficiency, without disturbance of accepted fundamentals and principles of American government, is urgently needed and devoutly desired by the nation. Hundreds of millions of dollars can be saved and simplification of government promoted by reorganization of the executive agencies.

There is, however, ample notice to the leaders of the government in the record of the reorganization bill defeat at the last session of Congress that reorganization of the federal government for any other purpose or in any other manner is contrary to the will of the American people. The evidence all ready in is of mandate proportions.

The volume and force of that mandate at the recent session began to roll into Washington slowly, but it reached gale force when the nation realized for a month of Senate debate the full purport of the all embracing recommendations originally made by the Brownlow committee on administrative management, unqualifiedly endorsed by President Roosevelt and urged upon the Congress.

A new Congress is to be convened in January. That means a revival of the reorganization proposals will have to start from scratch.

With that fact in view, the mandate of the last session should stand out like a red light against launching another program, in the name of reorganization, which, at the outset, proposes suspension of majority rule in Congress through provisions allowing the executive to promulgate orders with effect of law with respect to agencies and functions, and thereby nullify laws and policies adopted by Congress while Congress could only recapture its constitutional power by a two-thirds vote if the executive veto is exercised.

That mandate should stand out like a red light against launching another program in the name of reorganization, which, at the outset, proposes abolition of the general accounting office, and the transfer to the executive (operating) branch of the teeth of this independent expenditure watchdog, which was created by Congress to prescribe government bookkeeping and accounting and audit expenditures of congressional appropriations.

Add the possibilities of the resulting kind of a fiscal check to the currently popular practice of lump sum appropriations running into tens of billions of dollars.

That mandate should stand out against launching another program, in the name of reorganization, which, at the outset, proposes establishment of two new super executive departments and one great independent agency with the vast increases in regular expenses naturally to be expected.

Add the dignity of cabinet portfolios to heads of the gigantic new governmental superstructures, designed largely to house so-called temporary agencies, to the refusal of those in authority at least to reprimand bureaucrats for using politically the influence of their offices.

That mandate should stand out against launching another program, which the authors, the President and the congressional proponents admitted, throughout consideration, provided for no economy, and which gives little if any assurance of efficiency or simplification.

Add admission of an economy to the creation of three great new agencies of government on a permanent basis, and assurances given on the floor of the Senate from what was described as "high authority" that per agencies were safe from executive reorganization pruning and the answer is increased governmental costs. And besides admitting the probability of increased costs, the Senate leadership opposed amendments providing even of a declaration emphasizing economy was the main objective. Economy was no part of the defeated reorganization program, creating new and costly agencies of government, abolishing the independent accounting system, and that was the kind of a reorganization program that was sent to Congress for consideration before!

Many of us who fought that program, transferring for an indefinite period vast power from the legislative to the executive branch, can be counted upon to fight in the front ranks for an effort to put through a constructive reorganization program for economy, efficiency and simplicity in the federal government that would

BURDENS ON THE FUTURE

By ERNEST MINOR PATTERSON
President, American Academy of Political and Social Science

Our federal government debt is now about $37,000,000,000. State and local debts add a large amount to the total. It is argued by many that we are in some way shifting our burdens on the present generation — our children and grandchildren. Is this so and, if so, how?

In some particulars it is not so at all. The statement is often made about the financing of the World War. A little reflection makes it clear that such an assertion should be qualified. During the war millions of men left their usual occupations and went into military service. They drilled and marching and fighting had to be done at that time. They could not and did not pass it on to their children. They needed arms, ammunition, food, clothing, etc. These had to be furnished at that time by the people then living and working. It was not possible to delay in providing the goods and services that were needed at once. The headaches and backaches and privations were necessarily borne at the time.

What was passed on was a federal debt. Was that a burden for later generations? The government was a debtor to the amount of about $26,000,000,000 in 1920. But for every debtor there is, of course, a creditor. Government bonds were held by private individuals, by insurance companies, by banks. The task was that of collecting through taxation the amounts necessary to pay interest and to repay principal to these creditors of the government. To some extent the losses of taxpayers were offset by the gains of these bondholders. Whether the net result was burdensome to the people of the country viewed as a whole is not easily answered. Of course taxpayers grumbled, but presumably the investors in government bonds viewed the situation as investors usually do. If the interlude of the war brought a slowing down of our economic growth, we clearly lost to the extent that our national economy was smaller and less productive than it would have been if there had been no conflict. We would have had more able-bodied productive workers and perhaps have held a larger amount of productive capital equipment if we had not stopped to fight.

How about our present enlarged public debt? We may apply the same analysis. Since 1929 our economic activity has slowed down. Those of us who have lived during these nine years have had reduced incomes because there was less to send Plan, realizing it as the only solution and way out of the present economic and financial disaster that fails to improve after years of ineffectual, blind experimenting.

If everybody were fully acquainted with all phases of the Townsend Plan there would be a universal demand for its adoption into law without further delay. That time is rapidly approaching.

divide up. Because of government taxation and borrowing we have divided it in a different way than if government had not stepped in. Nevertheless, we have as a people taken our losses and shouldered our burdens as we went along. We have not lost man power in the same way as during the war.

Some argue, although convincing proof is hard to assemble, that there has been a deterioration in the will to work. If this is the case, there will be some retardation in the will to work in the years ahead, and this will be a burden. On the other hand, we have made additions to capital equipment. Perhaps the additions have not been so great as they might have been and perhaps some of them have been ill-advised or worse, but new highways have been built, buildings and power dams erected, etc. These should all be noted and appraised.

What is the burden passed on? Just as in 1920 we find our governments with debts, only much larger. But for every debtor there is always a creditor. The creditors are the owners of government promises to pay. The burden is again that of finding ways and means to levy taxes, the proceeds of which will be used to pay interest and to repay principal. To some extent burdens on taxpayers will be offset by the gains of creditors.

There are still other considerations. One is that the present federal debt carries a very low interest rate and much of it is held by our banks. When business improves interest rates may be expected to rise. Then the government will have to pay more to bondholders which will add to taxation. Also the banks will have to use the greatest of skill for any low interest bonds they hold will decline in value, which may force them to take losses.

There are other burdens. They are connected with the difficulties in devising proper taxes and with the awkward situation created by the fact that our banks hold so many government bonds. Nothing can make our task simple. The greatest help will come from an enlarged national income which will give to taxpayers more out of which to pay their taxes and furnish the banks remunerative channels of investment as they gradually dispose of their government bonds.

General Hugh S. JOHNSON SAYS

BETHANY BEACH, Del.—Far be it from hence to be making predictions of prosperity or, even by implication, running a tipster service on markets. There is not enough wisdom to do that—here or anywhere. If accurate predictions were possible there wouldn't be any tipster services because all the tipsters would be multi-millionaires and advising others would be beneath their dignity.

But there isn't a doubt that all the important business indexes are turning upward. What was spotty a month ago, is becoming more uniform and things seem, at least, to be in better balance for an upswing than they have in a long time. In this condition several skeptical commentators are talking about "false dawn" and comparing this advance with the remarkably sudden upward surge in 1933 that began in March and ascended further in a short time than any in our history—only to strike the ceiling in August and come bouncing back.

The so-called "argument" was due to business trying to "beat the gun" and get out a lot of production before the NRA codes by increasing workers' pay would raise all costs. The idea of these jobs' comforters is that the new Wages and Hours bill is like NRA and that the present spurt is another "false dawn" due to a new effort to "beat the gun" on a new increase in wages and costs.

For opinion based on ignorance this hits a high. In the first place, NRA was the least of many influences that caused the sput of 1933. In a condition of absolute defeat, demoralization and despair, with all the banks and employment at a standstill and worse threatened, enterprise in this country was completely comatose.

Mr. Roosevelt's activities in his first few weeks had the effect of galvanizing a corpse. The mental attitude of this country changed more quickly and completely than anybody thought possible, from an absolute low of despair to almost unlimited hope. The budget was to be balanced. Agriculture was to be rescued. The unemployed were going back to work. The banking collapse was salvaged. Unlimited credits were created. Confidence returned in a tidal wave.

As for fear of increased costs AAA promised through processing taxes and artificial shortage to increase costs far more than NRA. The later experiment of devaluing the dollar was expected by many almost to double them. Sure, there was a rush to "beat the gun" but NRA wasn't the principal gun. The real cause was that on all fronts was expected a vast inflationary boom and the whole country rushed to "buy 'em low and sell 'em high."

There is no parallel whatever in the condition now—no record blackness of despair to start from, no threatened inflation of farm prices, no new dollar devaluation, and as for any vast increased costs due to the thin and puny little Wages and Hours Bill, that is an act of absurdity.

In the ten great basic industries, it will have no effect at all. They already pay wages well above its ultimate minimum. It applies only to small sweat-shops, industries or sweatshops where costs have been very little on the general price structure. This recovery doesn't look like any new "false dawn" to me. Maybe it is, but if it so turns out, it won't be because of any rush to "beat the gun" of the Wages and Hours Bill. That isn't a gun. It isn't even a toy cap-pistol.

Without any prophesy, we are entitled to wonder whether the depression hasn't simply lived too long, isn't about to die a natural death through age, and if this country isn't just too rich and resilient to be kept down by any force of blundering economic or political tinkering.

Sharing The Comforts Of Life

EX-RAILROAD ENGINEER SEES A PRIMARY CAUSE OF UNEMPLOYMENT

The writer had the pleasure of meeting an ex-railroad engineer who had turned to farming. He had worked for 18 years as an engineer on the Pennsylvania railroad and had been laid off and purchased a 65-acre farm of good land close to a manufacturing city in Ohio. The farm had a 14-room brick house on it and a large barn. He paid $6500 for it.

The engineer said that when he was in school he always liked history and had received good grades in it; that he read all the books on it that he could get his hands on; that he always was interested in knowing why things happened.

This gave the writer a splendid opportunity to ask him why we had 10 or 12 million men out of work. He said he thought he knew the cause. He remarked, in substance, that it largely was due to the unwise policy of labor. He said labor had made demands that had run up the price of the finished product to such a high point that the farmers, the small business men, the white-collared unprotected men, and those who had a fixed income from former savings, could not buy enough to keep the workers employed at full time at these arbitrary wages.

The ex-railroad man was intelligent enough to know that he could receive for his labor on the farm only about one-fifth as much as he received as a railroad engineer. Consequently, he reasoned, these high wages in factories and on the railroad would compel men like himself to buy less than they would if wages were based on a parity basis established by competition.

This engineer had had practical experience in monopoly wages and in competitive wages and was wise enough to see the results. Invariably it is the theorists, the meddlers and those who employ no unskilled labor who are constantly contending that the cause of the depression is low wages, preventing people from having purchasing power. The one big employer who preaches this doctrine is Henry Ford. But Ford selects the fastest and most efficient workers who are big producers. He never employs slow men, yet he hypocritically preaches the doctrine and will not take his own medicine. That is, pay big wages to inefficient workers.

Would that more of these high-wage advocates could have the actual experience of this railroad engineer. Experience is the best educator, but it is expensive.

In an early issue a conversation with a professor of political economy in a small college will be discussed in contrast to the opinions of this practical engineer.

This column invites its readers to point out any inconsistencies.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Register Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 15.—There will be three million heads of families and single persons on the WPA rolls by the end of July.

That is nearly twice as many as a year ago. On July 31, 1937, there were 1,539,000.

Last year there was a drop of 138,000 WPA workers in the month of July, when the policy was to slash the rolls and to ignore several hundred thousand persons on relief who were eligible applicants for WPA jobs. For July, 1938, there will be an increase of 257,000 on straight WPA relief rolls plus a portion of a group of more than 100,000 WPA workers expected to be employed by a special congressional allocation of $60,000,000 for projects under other federal agencies.

The increase is unprecedented for this time of year. In addition to a change in administration policy, the new crop control program and mechanization of farms are partly credited by WPA officials—speaking privately—for the fact that fewer WPA workers can find farm or other seasonal work.

The biggest July increases are scheduled for the Great Lakes states—especially Illinois, Ohio, and Michigan—and Missouri.

Average WPA monthly wage is slightly below $55. The total roll is not likely to exceed 3,050,000 unless business gets worse instead of, as now anticipated, better. Recovery effects are not reflected immediately on WPA rolls because those first hired by reviving industry are persons who have been receiving unemployment compensations and others only recently unemployed—plus those who have been unable to get on WPA and will be forced to take very low-wage jobs.

"Push" Into Purge
If anyone still clings to the moth-eaten myth that Mr. Roosevelt was pushed into the attempted "purge" of Democratic conservatives by left-wing advisers, and reluctantly at that, just listen to this:

Within the week preceding and the week following the Fourth of July the President urged two prominent men to seek nomination and election to the Senate on the ground that he wanted to build up the Democratic progressive bloc in that body.

In neither case was his request known—and at this writing it still isn't—to the group of New Dealers, sometimes called the "elimination committee," who unofficially are supervising Roosevelt's campaign to help seat liberals in the place of conservatives. That's the important point.

There may be similar instances unknown to this writer. One of the two men told Roosevelt he had no chance to beat the incumbent Democratic senator for the nomination. The other, although agreeing with Roosevelt that he could be nominated and elected with administration support, said the Senate would bore him to tears. Roosevelt is still pressuring both.

Horse of a Different Color

Amusement and amazement were the twin reactions in Washington to news from New York that independent steel companies, hit by the abolition of basing point differentials announced by U. S. Steel along with its price cuts, were exploring ways and means of protesting to the federal government against the change. The basing point system, by New Deal standards, always has been considered a prime example of a monopolistic price-fixing device.

Furthermore, heads of so-called "little steel" companies such as Tom Girdler, Ernest Weir and Eugene Grace have been loudest in decrying "government interference" and denouncing administration labor policies.

According to late reports, attorneys for "little steel" companies have advised their clients there is no agency in Washington to which they can effectively squawk.
